

Rocks Break Up Fishing Boat, DC Man Dies

One man drowned and seven other persons were rescued by the sheriff's reserve skin-diving team Sunday after a 42-foot fishing boat was blown against rocks off Shelter Cove just north of Pedro Point in Pacifica.

In a second rescue operation, skin divers boarded a disabled fishing boat off Gazos Creek Beach and found the unconscious occupant, a 75-year-old Aptos man, calmly drinking coffee and eating bread.

Drowned in the Shelter Cove mishap was Detroit Benson, 50, of 501 Vista Grande, Daly City.

Benson's body was lifted from the water by a Coast Guard helicopter after the fishing boat lost an engine and was blown against the rocks about 11:50 a.m., the sheriff's office reports. The boat "Cara Mia Baby," broke up within 10 minutes after hitting the rocks.

Seven of the occupants, including Benson's 13-year-old son, Patrick, managed to clamber onto rocks about 50 yards off shore, remaining there 2½ hours before being rescued by six members of the skin diving team. One of the victims fired shots from a gun he was carrying to attract the attention of people on the beach.

The rescuers shot lines from shore to the rocks, then assisted the victims along the line through the water to safety.

Two of the victims were taken to Mary's help

Hospital. They were Benson's son, who was released after observation, and John Andrews, 37, of San Francisco, who was treated for a fractured right shoulder and released.

Also aboard the boat were its operator, Charles Henry, 39, of San Francisco; Marvin Dean, 42, of Foster City; Marcette Scarborough, 33, of Daly City; Clarence Smith, 51, of San Francisco, and N. L. Hendricks.

John A. Landen was rescued after his disabled 50-foot fishing boat, "Little Dipper," had engine failure off the beach near the southern end of the county.

Reserve Deputy Sheriff William Smith reported that Landen put out an anchor and spent several hours awaiting rescue. He was unable to radio the Coast Guard because the boat's radio was not functioning.

It was after 6 p.m. when skin divers John Gast and Louis Garavalia were airlifted one at a time by the sheriff's helicopter to a point in the water near the boat, about 100 yards off shore.

The divers climbed aboard the boat and found Landen eating bread and drinking coffee.

A Coast Guard helicopter air-lifted the fisherman to Half Moon Bay where he remained overnight.

Smith said the boat had drifted aground in shallow water.

Pacifica Sewer Fee up

The Pacifica City Council Monday night adopted an urgency ordinance setting sewer service charges which are expected to double the average homeowner's yearly bill to about $80.

The ordinance calls for a minimum rate of $40 a year for all users, plus an additional rate based on individual use in 100 cubic foot increments.

The incremental breakdown consists of a different rate, for example, to restaurants than to car washes.

As part of the ordinance, those believing the specific charge is excessive will, if they can substantiate their position, be entitled to a rate reduction.

Councilman Sid Lorvan was alone in opposing the rate increase. He had proposed a motion, which died for lack of a second, which would have utilized monies the city has received from the sale of the old Linda Mar sewage facility to lower the rate.

The city, in anticipation of going into a secondary treatment stage at the new sewer plant, had set aside $565,000 of the roughly $900,000 received on the sale of the old plant for the expansion.

Another $350,000 was set aside for the construction of a new fire station in Linda Mar. That amount is to be

Medical Facility Expands

Renovations and new health services are being offered in what was once the old Daly City Courthouse building at 75 Wellington Ave., according to Marlene Espinoza, patient service worker.

In addition to comprehensive medical, dental and social services, Our Lady of Guadalupe Health Center is preparing to open a new optometry department.

The optometry department is a new medical service that will be available within the next few weeks.

The optometry department, directed by Dr. Nick Gutierrez, will be providing eye examinations for the dispensing of eye glasses and screening other eye disorders and disease.

Another new addition to the staff is Dr. Robert Power, specialist in obstetrics and gynecology, who is presently examining women patients on Tuesday and Thursday morning from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

A full range of family planning services are available at the health center including birth control pills and infertility counseling.

The family planning services are usually available at no cost to the patient through a special family planning program in which the health center participates.

Dr. Raymond Donovan, family practitioner works with adult patients in family medicine. The medical staff

Summer Work Program

If you are a member of the Daly City business community and looking for a summer replacement to help out around the store, Mayor Victor Kyriakis may have the answer to your problem.

Kyriakis, chairman of the North County Business Leadership Council, met recently with school district representatives and members of the business community to discuss ways of promoting the Neighborhood Youth Corps Summer Jobs Program.

NYC is a work experience and training program for youth 14 years of age and older from low income families — kids who really need a job.

The goal is to improve work habits, attitudes and skills in order to improve employment prospects.

The Daly City Community Service Center on Mission Street is working with the Jefferson Union High School District Work Experience Education Program in placing youth in summer jobs.

Employers wanting more information on full or part-time employment, are asked to contact Mike Orlich (755-3920) or Mike Furtch (992-2567).

City Council Delays Water Rate Boost

The Daly City Council Monday temporarily put off increasing its water rates, but not before a lively discussion was aired centering on the use of water by the Serra shopping center in Colma.

Councilman Paul Hupf suggested a long hard look be given to water charges levied against the shopping center off Highway 280.

It was recommended by the city staff that the center, an "outside" water user, be charged double the rate being paid by residents of the city's Serramonte area. Serramonte now pays a higher rate than other areas of Daly City, it was explained.

But Hupf voiced concern over the apparent cheap cost of water to Serra Center, noting the city "has lost a substantial amount of tax revenue" as a result of the center.

Records indicate the Serra Center provided some $461,000 in sales tax revenues to Colma last year.

The councilman said the center received "very favorable" treatment from Daly City when the original request for water was made several years ago.

Mayor Victor Kyriakis asked City Manager David Rowe if the center was a heavy water user, and if there were any comparable city water rate schedules available.

Rowe said the Serra Center had a choice of laying a pipeline along Junipero

Serra Boulevard to Hickey and picking up California Water Company services, or of paying Daly City double fees and using the city water.

"They obviously decided it was cheaper to use Daly City water," Rowe said.

Until an evaluation can be made of the impact on the overall water supply by the center, Hupf vowed to oppose the rate increase.

Councilman William Schumacher said perhaps the center should be charged three, or even four times the going rate.

"I am not now in a frame of mind to be equitable to

Discrimination: D.C. 'Caught in Middle'

Daly City is caught in the middle on charges it discriminates in hiring and pay practices for women and minorities. City Atty. Albert Polonsky said today.

The charges were made by Ms. B. J. Miller, an investigator for the Fair Employment Practices Commission, last week.

She had been working on a complaint filed by Local 919, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Union, which boasts about 100 members in Daly City government.

City Attorney Albert Polonsky said the city is required to bargain in good faith under provisions of the Meyer-Milias-Brown Act.

But if they continue to bargain with employee groups as they have in the past, could they be perpetuating the discrimination charges?

Polonsky asked the FEPC last week to grant the city immunity so negotiations with employees could continue.

The FEPC refused the request, Polonsky said. After huddling with other city officials, Polonsky decided to give the go-ahead for talks to continue starting today.

Meanwhile, the commission has authorized a far-reaching investigation be made into the employment, promotion and salary setting practices of the city.

Ironically, the employees' union had originated the charges against the city.

They were named by the Commission as co-defendants in the case inasmuch as

Blossom Valley Conditions Told

Homes in the proposed Blossom Valley development in east Daly City will be completely soundproofed, the city council was told Monday.

Not only will the connecting homes be separated by some 11 inches of insulation and wallboard, they will be the most fireproof wooden structures anywhere in the city, according to the developers.

Robert Pauley, of Forest Knolls Development Co., said his company has agreed to all the terms of annexation asked by the city.

The conditions include installation of a landscaped median strip between Guadalupe Canyon Parkway and the proposed Blossom Court. Also, planned is installation of water mains to nearby J. F. Kennedy Elementary School.

Plans for the Blossom Valley tract include construction of 160 single-family dwellings.

City Manager David Rowe said he expected the developer to cooperate in dedication of a park site in the development — perhaps one-third the size of the overall development.

The availability of funds will dictate the size and scope of the park, which would be located in a canyon on the lower slopes of San Bruno Mountain.

Arthur "Buzz" Haskins agreed to dedicate 200 square feet of land for park purposes, or $160 per unit, if and when he develops his property adjacent to the site.

Pacifica, the coastal city beset with a seemingly unending budgetary problem, Monday night kept alive the elusive dream of having its own civic center.

While council members scheduled interviews with six potential civic center architects for June 19, a former mayor, Nick Gust, questioned the wisdom of it.

Earlier in the evening the council routinely denied a $500,000 claim by Fisher-Friedman Associates for damages allegedly occurred as the result of an agreement for performance of civic center related architectural services in 1972.

The claim by the San Francisco firm says that on or about March 12, 1975, the city "wrongfully terminated an agreement entered into with claimant for performance of architectural services, to wit, the design and building of a new civic center complex, which agreement was made on or about Jan. 1, 1972."

According to the claim, the city's termination of the contract "tortiously interfered" with the claimant's business.

Meanwhile, Gust suggested the council instruct the staff analyze where revenues for operation of the city during the next five years will come from.

"I think it's time we become realistic and get down to brass tacks about where the city is going," said Gust.

Westborough Area

Fire Damages Homes

Two Westborough area homes in South San Francisco were damaged by a gasoline-fed fire Saturday.

A South San Francisco Fire Department spokesman said Joseph Micalle, 14, of Leix Way was repairing a gasoline line on his small foreign car when the fire started after his droplight fell and broke, igniting fumes.

Micalle quickly got out from under the vehicle, shut the garage door and alerted his wife and a child in the house.

Six other children already were away from the residence.

Michael Micalle, 14, was "slightly overcome" by smoke and treated by paramedics when he attempted to extinguish the blaze with water from a garden hose, firemen said.

The garage was completely involved by flame when Daly City Station 7 firemen and South San Francisco Station 4 firemen arrived.

The fire totalled the garage and the car, and spread to an upstairs bedroom, according to the firemen, who estimated damage at $2,000 to the car $6,000 to the structure, and $600 to the bedroom contents.

Flame and smoke damage to a neighboring structure was estimated at $5,500.

DC Officer Honored

A Daly City police officer and a San Mateo citizen will receive commendations for valor from state Atty. Gen. Evelle J. Younger at a zone meeting of police chiefs and sheriffs in San Leandro at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday, June 10.

The recipients will be police officer Robert Hyink of Daly City and Ronald Cuthbert of San Mateo.

Hyink dragged a dying man from a Daly City fire last Sept. 7. Cuthbert called police and then helped subdue a burglar suspect in San Mateo last Oct. 12.

Jerry Littman, chief of information services of the California Department of Justice said today that Hyink was nominated for the valor award by Daly City Police Chief David A. Hanson.

In his nomination, Littman said, Hanson said Hyink was dispatched to a burning Daly City residence and found heavy smoke and heat after he kicked in a door.

Hyink then crawled in, dragged an unconscious victim to a hallway, and gave him artificial resuscitation until breathing was restored, staying with the victim, despite suffering from smoke inhalation himself, until help arrived, according to Hanson.

The victim later died in the hospital to which he was taken. Littman said.

The awards are made either to officers or citizens, upon nomination of police chiefs or sheriffs, Littman said.

the union entered into memorandums of understanding with the city regarding salaries and working conditions.

The case itself stems from allegations the city discriminates against women starting to work for the city at the lowest pay level.

Men starting to work are paid more than women, the complaint alleged.

The City of Daly City, on June 28, 1974, reached agreement with the union on terms and conditions of employment for the contract year starting in July, 1974 and ending on June 30, 1975.

The union membership ratified this agreement.

During the June 5 FEPC preliminary hearing, Polonsky argued that if discrimination against women employees indeed occurred, it was a joint action between the union and city.

The FEPC is investigating six areas dealing with alleged irregularities in the city's hiring practices:

- Severe Under-Utilization of ethnic minorities existing in all categories of city employment, except in service and maintenance categories. Women also are alleged to be severely underutilized in all employment categories, except clerical.

- The written civil service examinations have not been validated as being job-related, or as to whether they are slanted against any particular ethnic minority due to cultural biases.

- The traditional method of salary evaluation, which asks other Government agencies for comparisons, is discriminatory against women, since all agencies discriminate against women, the FEPC charges.

- Statutes submitted by the FEPC staff concerning supervisory, craft workers, professional and technical positions show that ethnic minorities and women are severely under-utilized.

- The city maintains "sex-tied job titles" which limits promotional job opportunities for women employees and results in creating lower wage scales for women as a class.

- The affirmative action program for ethnic minorities is inadequate since it does not contain goals and timetables. It also does not include women in its definition of minorities, according to the report.

teeling for our neighbors (Colma)," Stewart said.

Stewart compared the water issue with mutual aid police and fire services provided to neighboring cities.

Hupf disagreed, saying there is no comparison between protective services to people and water being supplied to a commercial enterprise.

There are 12 "outside" water users who have agreements with Daly City. All would be affected by a rate change, it was explained.

Mission Street businessman George Kirchhubel cautioned the council not to jump into the water rate hike until a complete study of the rate structure for all consumers was made.

Rowe said his offices had not hurried into the proposed water increase.

The cost of power, coupled with the increased cost of personnel and material, is responsible for the water rate increase request, Rowe said.

San Francisco also has hit Daly City with a 17.4 per cent water rate increase, it was noted.

Daly City uses both its own well water and buys water from San Francisco's Hetch Hetchy system.

reimbursed through revenue-sharing monies at a later date.

It was pointed out by finance officer John Pratt that the city is still paying off bonds on the old plant.

Mayor Stan Farber explained that while the city could pay off these bonds in full, it was decided the wiser thing to do would be to pay them off as installments come due and earn interest on the unpaid amount.

This half a million dollars will go toward the city's share of the secondary treatment plant and prevent borrowing funds at high interest rate.

The council also set July 14 as a hearing date on for those wishing to protest the accuracy of the new rate structure, and agreed a city-hired auditor will be instructed to begin immediate computations on the city's 12,000 customers.

No one in the audience said he particularly liked the idea of an increased rate. Most indicated they felt that if it has to be done, the preferred thing to do is charge on the basis of individual service use. There were exceptions.

"Let's return to the out-house," said Emory Lebonville. "It's a lot simpler and less expensive."

City Manager Don Weidner had projected that unless something was done the treatment plant operation would show a deficit next year.

Pacifica to File For Site

Milagra Ridge Military Reservation has been determined to be surplus property, and as badly as Pacifica City Council members said they would like to have sole ownership they opted Monday night to investigate the possibility of filing a joint "notice of intent" application for the 220-acre parcel with the county.

Even then, the vote was 3-2, with Mayor Stan Farber and Councilman Aubrey Lumley voting against the measure. Lumley stressed his vote was made strictly on a fiscal basis.

"I don't think we can afford it," he said. Farber, in a passing comment, said the site would be ideal for a solid waste disposal, after which a championship golf course could be developed.

The Milagra Ridge reservation extends northward from Sharp Park Road and is within Pacifica's boundaries. The city currently holds approximately 37 acres of the site which was deeded to the city in 1974 as part of the Legacy of Parks program.

Ginny Jaquith, director of Parks, Beaches and Recreation, said requirements for application include incurring costs for title and property surveys, estimated at about $10,000.

She said the applicant also must provide a site development plan showing the proposed uses of the area. It must also include a development schedule showing when development will take place. Development must start within two years and be completed within 10 consecutive years, according to Ms. Jaquith.

Ms. Jaquith also said there is a general feeling among Bureau of Outdoor Recreation representatives that the parcel may be transferred to more than one agency for use.

Interest in Water Runs Downhill

San Mateo County is rapidly approaching a water crisis, but few Peninsula cities have expressed much interest in long range water management to assure the faucets keep running.

At least this is the opinion of Edward Morey, chairman of the Peninsula Water Agency, who along with other water management experts conducted a panel discussion Tuesday night on the "Future of Water in San Mateo County."

The meeting, sponsored by the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council, was held at Millbrae City Hall.

As chairman of the PWA, formed in 1969 by the Board of Supervisors, Morey has been charged with designing a master water plan for the county by 1977.

The first phase of the plan was presented to the Board of Supervisors and to the individual cities' council members last January. Morey said he had asked the council in each city to make it known to residents in their communities the county could run out of water by the year 1990, and to ask residents to suggest various alternatives on how the PWA could work to forestall such a disaster. He also requested that each council forward what it learned to the PWA. Morey said so far he has received comments on the first phase from only four cities.

"I have experienced frustration after frustration in attempting to get people interested in solving the problem we face in the future with our basic resource — water," Morey said.

The first phase of the plan, according to panelist Walter Schulz, of a consulting firm retained by the PWA to draw up the plan, was to project supply and demand of water in the future.

Demand was based on projected population and other factors.

The first phase Schulz said divided the county into two parts: the bayside urban areas, including Pacifica and Half Moon Bay and the rural portion of the county west of Skyline Boulevard.

Schulz said 99 per cent of the county's residents reside in one-half of the county, and the San Francisco Water Department

Schulz explained that today San Mateo County uses one-third of the water of the San Francisco Water Department. This, he admitted, is adequate for our needs now, but ventured that the county's allocation would decrease in the future as other counties using San Francisco water, including Santa Clara and Alameda, demand more for their residents.

Morey's concern centered on the prevailing attitude of several San Francisco supervisors that San Mateo County should pay more for the use of its water.

"Some San Francisco supervisors are or pipeline from the Stanislaus River.

Schulz admitted there would be many problems connected with development of most of the alternative sources, notably the pressure from conservationists in damming the creeks, and the cost involved in the desalination process.

Another panelist, Fred Lyon, a representative of the Committee for Green Foothills, expanded on what he believed would be the attitudes of many of the county's conservationists regarding development of alternative sources of water.

Lyon explained that in the past conservationists have opposed most water supply

Because development of alternative sources of water in the county would be extremely costly and because even if the county opted to dam the Coastside creeks, the county only would generate about 15 per cent of the 100 million gallons it consumes daily, the PWA is leaning toward recommending development of one project — the fourth barrel from the Stanislaus River. This would mean San Mateo County would have to continue using San Francisco water.

Currently San Francisco operates three barrels from the river. Water from the river used to flow into the Crystal Springs Reservoir, then be pumped into San Francisco then back to San Mateo County. Now water flows directly to San Francisco via a bypass pipeline. The run-off flows into Crystal Springs.

It is Morey's opinion that by the late 1980s and early 1990s these three pipes will be unable to carry sufficient water to supply San Francisco plus the other counties using its water.

One resident present in the audience, expressed some concern that the first plan would be implemented without a thorough review of the project's impact on the environment. The fourth panelist, Bill Powers, assistant county planning director, assured the woman, an environmental impact statement would be filed before the plan was adopted.

Master Plan Details Sources

supplies 90 per cent of the water allocated this county to the urban areas.

"That supply on which we have been so dependent, is quite extensive but we don't know of a way we can continue to get the water we will need in the future," he said.

Schulz also noted that Coastside communities now do not have a dependable supply of water. "It's my opinion that right now there are public health problems on the coast, especially during peak days of recreational use."

Both Schulz and Morey expressed some concern over the future of the county's use of the San Francisco water supply.

upset with our county's attitude toward their airport and their jail in San Bruno. It seems clear that their intent is to turn the tide in their favor, when it comes to supplying us with water. We have got to begin to address ourselves to this potential problem," Morey said.

The first phase of the master water plan details alternative sources of water for the county and these include, according to Schulz: damming of the San Gregorio and Pescadero Creeks; the further tapping of ground water and other local run-offs; the use of reclaimed water; desalination; and the construction of a fourth "barrel" developments because of their effects on the environmental and their potential for inducing population growth.

Lyon suggested that a plan be designed to supply adequate water to the county without damaging the environment and without inducing growth. Although Lyon admitted this may be difficult, he said it could be accomplished if the plan is disseminated to all local interest groups and if members of these groups were allowed to comment freely on the plan.

"If this plan is not widely disseminated," Lyon warned, "an Alaskan Pipeline situation will arise."

Women 'Dimwitted?'

Wow! Our review of Helen Andelin's books, "Fascinating Girl" and "Fascinating Woman" brought the ladies out with long and flashing daggers. It seems that the "girls" want to be loved for what they are and not for how they paint their faces, or how they display their charms.

One scoffer called to mumble, "I want to be known for a mind that's classy, not for how I've learned to flip my chassy."

With all this in mind we bring you "The Manipulated Man," which isn't about men as much as women. In it Esther Vilar writes that "Women do not use their mental capacity; they deliberately let it disintegrate. After a few years of sporadic training, they revert to a state of irreversible torpor." She charges that in today's society the typical woman has become "a dimwitted, parasitic luxury item," and furthermore to maintain her condition she enslaves the men about her, forever using their knowledge, their power, their brawn, even their insecurities to provide for her. Hence, "he only feels safe as her slave, and her slave alone."

Esther Vilar writes that today's man is programmed to impress women, therefore he wears a suit that looks like a uniform. In fact he is so conditioned he is happy to let his woman buy his clothes for him. His whole life is spent in an endeavor to please his woman. To make her happy he invents appliances, cars, cake mixes, telephones, televisions, all of which rob her of any purpose for living except to impress other women.

MAN BEING the slave must impress his mistress, but woman must struggle for the impossible — "the recognition, admiration, and love of other women." As a result "only women exist in a woman's world. The women she meets at church, at parent-teacher meetings, or in the supermarket; the women with whom she chats over the garden fence; the women at parties or window shopping in the more fashionable streets . . . these are the measure of her success."

The up-shot of it all — according to Vilar — is modern women are not satisfied. They long for the liberation of their minds and their energies. They do not want to "conquer their men," as Andelin suggests. They are tired of painting their faces and doing their hair to keep forever childlike and of raising and training their children as a means of enthralling their men. In short they see the "manipulation and exploitation of their men as a vicious circle."

But will woman break the system. Vilar doesn't think so. "There is no compelling reason why she should. It is useless to appeal to her feelings, for she is callous and knows no pity. And so the world will go on, sinking deeper and deeper into the morass of kitsch, barbarism, and inanity called femininity. And many, that wonderful dreamer, will never awaken from his dream."

Esther Vilar, author of "The Manipulated Man" makes her observation from a world wide experience as a physician in Germany, as a psychologist and a sociologist in America and Europe. Her theories of social changes that are necessary have been called a new chapter in the relationship between the sexes. Other reviews hold that she states facts that are disturbingly true. Still others find her cynical and funny and often wrong-headed, short-sighted and limited to vast undocumented generalizations.

Perhaps the best review, it must have been a man — states, "I didn't like Ms. Vilar's book at first. But as I went on, I reluctantly liked it better."

SSF Bus Route Meeting Set

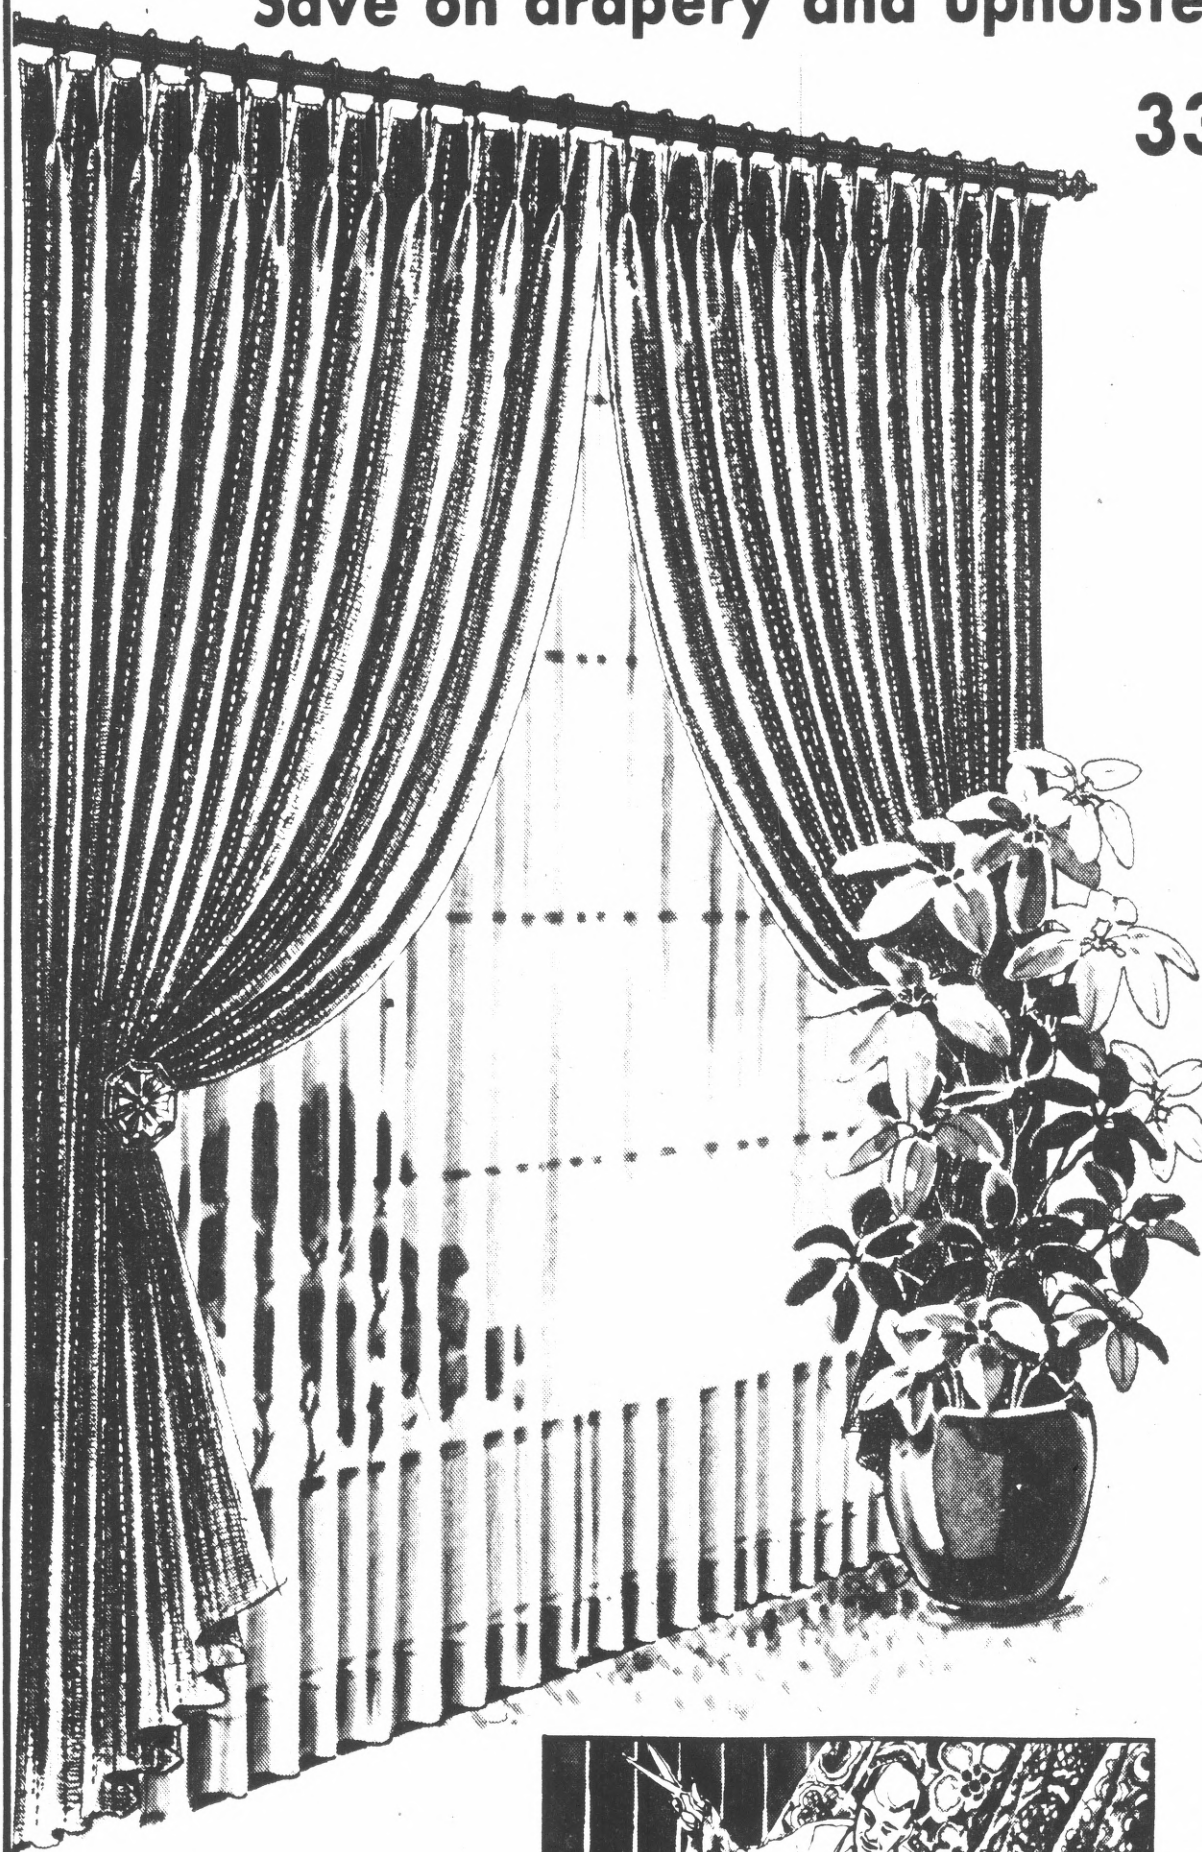

A series of meetings to present proposed bus routes for South San Francisco have been set up for next Monday and Wednesday, according to City Planner David Hale.

On Monday, five meetings are scheduled. Times and locations are as follows: 1 p.m. at Rotary Plaza, 433 Alida Way; 2:30 p.m. St. Paul's Methodist Church, 500 Miller Ave.; 4 p.m. Senior Citizens Center, 230 Grand Ave.; 7 p.m. Orange Avenue Library, 840 W. Orange Ave.; and 8:30 p.m. Westborough Junior High School, 257 Westborough Blvd.

One meeting is scheduled for Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at El Camino High School Little Theater, 1320 Mission Road.

SSF Opposes Cable TV Law

South San Francisco City Council this week authorized a letter be sent State Sen.

Alfred Alquist urging opposition to Senate Bill 423, which would place cable television under the authority of the California Public Utilities Commission.

Senator Alquist is chairman of the Senate Committee on Public Utilities. Copies of the letter also went to Senators George Moscone and Arlen Gregorio and Assemblymen Lou Papan and Dixon Arnett.

"Placing CATV under the authority of the California Public Utilities Commission appears unnecessary and potentially harmful to the future of community antenna television systems," the city's letter states.

"The City of South San Francisco worked diligently to design a franchise and assist our local firm, Western TV Cable, in becoming an asset to the community."

"Under PUC law, it is not possible for companies to experiment with money-losing services," stated the letter. "Yet without such development, cable can never fulfill its promise of using broadband technology to promote education, greater choice and diversity on television, a greater sense of community and improved local government."

The letter stated PUC regulation "is burdensome and restrictive" and would "dry-up" risk capital.

In other business, the council:
• Put over for a council study session recommendations to upgrade various fee schedules and adopt others.
• Directed City Atty.

John Noonan to prepare an ordinance for introduction at the next meeting to increase parking rates at the request of the Parking Place Commission. The additional revenue would be used to expand off-street parking facilities.
• Adopted a resolution commending Police Officer Anthony Wynne for bravery Nov. 28, 1974, when he disregarded his own safety at a fatal motorcycle accident and burned his hands while removing a badly injured passenger from the flaming scene.

Appeal Is Denied

The District Court of Appeal has denied a petition for a writ of mandate dismissal of the indictment against Matteo T. Fasanaro, former assistant superintendent for business affairs for the San Mateo Community College District.

Fasanaro and two others, Byron N. Sando and Bryan Selph, former executives with Litton Business Telephone Systems of Sunnyvale, are charged with bribery on the allegation that Fasanaro accepted $10,000 to influence a $500,000 telephone system contract award to Litton.

In its decision Friday, the District Court of Appeal also denied a petition dismissal of charges against Sando.

Lois Scampini, attorney for Fasanaro, and Sando's attorney, Angelo Pestarino, filed the petitions with the District Court of Appeal after Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan refused to dismiss the charges last April.

The attorneys sought the dismissals of the Grand Jury indictment on contention that it improperly found for the charges after holding a second session with an expanded jury, and that there is insufficient evidence to sustain the indictment.

Selph and Sando are scheduled to go to trial in Superior Court June 23, with Fasanaro's trial to be scheduled following completion of the first trial.

Warning On Fake Firms

San Bruno police have asked city residents to beware of home repair solicitors, who operate without a business permit and who, in at least one case, have bilked an elderly woman out of $400.

Police said that last month a Lomita Park woman reported to police she had paid $400 to repairmen, who solicited her to seal the roof of her home so that it would never leak. The woman told police her roof still leaks.

According to police, the method of operation of these "traveling repairmen" is to solicit neighborhood residences and to advise an occupant that they will "fix" the roof of his home so that it will never leak.

The "repairmen" usually charge between $300 and $400 for spraying the roof with a silver aluminum or with old motor oil and gravel. They advise the occupant that the spray will water-proof and seal the roof, when in fact, according to police, the treatment has no lasting value at all.

Sgt. Norm Dunham said these phony repairmen have been reported operating in cities throughout the Peninsula. He said reports of their activities "come in every summer."

Sgt. Dunham suggested that homeowners ask all solicitors if they possess a soliciting permit issued by the City of San Bruno. "If they don't have a permit, don't bother with them," Sgt. Dunham said.

Re-hearing For Robert F. Cauley

Former Coroner's Investigator Robert F. Cauley who was dismissed more than two years ago after he was convicted by a jury of conspiracy involving the theft of a $500 check from an estate was granted a re-hearing for June 19 by the county's Civil Service Commission Friday.

The conviction was later overturned by the State Appellate Court, which upheld the convictions of two other deputy coroners dismissed at the time Cauley was fired.

At the hearing Friday, the Civil Service Commission denied Cauley's request for immediate reinstatement in his former job.

Cauley received a notice of dismissal from County Coroner Paul B. Jensen on Feb. 6, 1973 charging him with neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming a public officer, committing a crime and theft and forgery of a $500 cashier's check.

Cauley is also asking $37,904 in back pay since the time of his dismissal.

Cauley's attorney, Walter H. Harrington Jr. told the commission that Cauley had the mumps at the time he was accused of the offenses, and had no knowledge of the theft until informed by an agent from the district attorney's office.

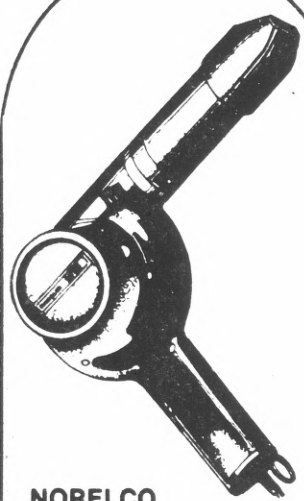

Pacifica Projects Stressed

Pacifica City Council this week reaffirmed an earlier choice of a park and flood wall alternative for proposed improvements along San Pedro Creek.

According to Asst. City Engineer Frank Erbacher, staff has been instructed to investigate funding possibilities and report their findings by June 23.

He said the city intends to send a letter to the Army Corps of Engineers expressing the desire for this project to proceed. Erbacher said cost figures were "very preliminary" and subject to change depending on the extensiveness of the final project.

Agencies Seek Volunteer Help

Persons interested in sharing their summer days with others as volunteers are afforded many job possibilities locally including those listed recently with the Volunteer Bureau-Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

MENTAL HEALTH ASSOCIATION — Volunteers to work at the eight Friendship Centers in the county which serve as social centers for persons recovering from mental illness. Clerical help also needed in the association's San Mateo office.

EASTER SEALS — Assistants to handle light clerical work. No typing is involved for this job, however, typists are needed for other work.

OICW, SAN MATEO — Aides to watch children while their mothers participate in a training program. Orientation is provided.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — Volunteers to work Fridays and Saturdays in the new thrift shop selling clothing, books, household appliances. Aides will be asked to work two-hour shifts.

MILLS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY — Persons interested in joining the hospital auxiliary. Orientation will be given on June 18 at 9:15 a.m. in the fifth floor conference room.

PENINSULA CONSERVATORY FOUNDATION — Someone to catalogue recently required music, to type cards for the library and to check music in and out of the library.

High school students in the San Mateo Union High School District may register for summer School-Community Service volunteer positions with their School-Community Service Coordinator or the Volunteer Bureau. Volunteer work is available at schools, camps, hospitals, local government and non-profit agencies and with the handicapped.

Area Residents to Be Inducted

Two North San Mateo County residents will be inducted as officers of the Fil-Am Lions Club of San Francisco when it holds its fourth installation of officers and dinner-dance on July 26 at the Miyako Hotel, Laguna and Post Streets, San Francisco.

Cip Ayalin is the president-elect. Aster Navarro is the secretary-elect.

Ayalin succeeds Oris S. Bautista as of July 1. Other incoming officers will include Romulo L. Molina and Manuel Nery, first and second vice presidents, respectively. Rene Miranda, treasurer; O. I. Jun Caba, taitwister; Phil Sotto, Lion tamer. Board of directors for 1975-76 will be Gerry Serafino, Ven Agricola, Steve Sadang, Menes Osorio, Gumercindo dela Cruz and Sal Javier.

Ayalin, a charter member, is also the secretary of the San Francisco Council of Lions Clubs composed of 13 clubs in the city whose delegates are the respective presidents and secretaries of each club. Ayalin holds 100 per cent attendance with his club and has been its secretary, twice.

Other positions he held were vice president, committee chairmanships for the annual White Cane Days and Youth and Community Activities fund drives, taitwister, bulletin editor and program chairman.

A native of Manila, he has resided in the Bay Area for more than 20 years. He owns his portrait and commercial photography studio in San Francisco. He is a co-founder of San Francisco Photography Workshop which teaches amateur and advanced photographers how to improve their photography techniques. A member of St. Andrews Parish, he and his wife, Virginia, reside with their son in Daly City.

Cip Ayalin

Aster Navarro, the secretary-elect, has been the Flag Day chairman this year in which the club donated miniature American flags and explained what they mean to sixth graders at Bessie Carmichael Elementary School. He recently completed the Lions School for new elected officers in Burlingame. He is also the vice president of the Baugio Californians.

Navarro, an assistant manager of New York Life Insurance Company, has been in the insurance business for four years with the Embarcadero General Office in San Francisco. A Bay Area resident for six years, he is married to Adel. They have two children. The family resides in Pacifica.

The Fil-Am Lions Club is one of 37 clubs in District 4C-4 comprising San Francisco to Portola Valley. Stan Stebbins of San Francisco is the district governor and Lee Shore of Redwood City is the governor-elect.

Organizer and charter president of the Fil-Am Lions Club is Dr. Estebe (Steve) N. Sadang, a retired colonel from the Philippines, who has been a long-time member of the Lions Club International from his native country. The Fil-Am Lions Club was formed April 30, 1971. It has 24 members.

Other members include Robert Pizarro, Dan Masalta, Eddie Jose, Amado del Rosario, Alfred Lipat, Lito Cruz, George Gano, Pete Amper, Anthony Baladad, Richard Wilson and Bob Javier.

O. I. Jun Caba, who owns Jolino Jewelers, will be the master of ceremonies for the evening. Music will be by the Amihan. Tickets may be obtained from Lions members.

Save the Mountain Seminars

The Save San Bruno Mountain Committee has scheduled a "Save San Bruno Mountain Seminar" to be held every Thursday evening at 327-B Baden St., South San Francisco, starting June 12.

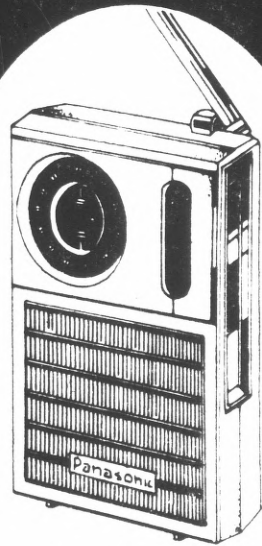

The main purpose of the seminar is to familiarize interested citizens and volunteer workers with the facts and issues of the proposed development on San Bruno Mountain, the park that has been proposed by the committee as an alternative to the development, and the governmental processes that will decide the ultimate outcome.

"In our organizing efforts, we've found that people in San Mateo County and San Francisco respond with tremendous enthusiasm to our goal of saving the mountain," said David Sanders, committee coordinator. "But they often feel that citizens are helpless against conglomerates and governments. Through this seminar we hope to give them the information that is needed to win the fight," said Sanders.

"But commitment to saving the mountain is not necessary to attend the seminar. Curiosity and a desire to understand this large and far-reaching issue are all that we ask," Sanders added.

Although the seminar will be held weekly, people may attend once, or several times — any time they wish — as their interests and schedules dictate.

Visitors Bureau Blasts Tourism Office Closing

Officials from the San Mateo County Convention and Visitors Bureau today blasted Gov. Edmund Brown's administration for closing the state Division of Tourism and destroying large volumes of mail requesting tourist information about California.

The San Mateo County Bureau also offered to take over the state's job of answering the threatened letters. Reportedly there is a two-month backlog of mail (about 20,000 letters) to the Division of Tourism. The letters that are open are being destroyed and the letters not opened returned to the sender.

"Governor, I don't call this fiscal responsibility. I call it waste," said Bureau President Irving Amstrup in a strong letter addressed to Gov. Brown.

Amstrup's action was triggered by newspaper reports from Sacramento that state officials were beginning to destroy the volumes of mail. Also being destroyed are materials such as brochures that could be sent out in response to letters requesting information.

"It is inconceivable to me that the governor could take such action," Amstrup said. "and I will be advising the governor that if he will forward those request letters to our bureau, together with the bulk brochures he plans to destroy, our bureau will seek means to answer those letters independently or with the help of our convention bureau colleagues statewide."

The Tourism Division is part of the Department of Commerce which Gov. Brown has refused to fund for next year, except for the California Museum of Science and Industry in Los Angeles.

The governor believes tourism promotion, specifically, should be handled by private industry.

Amstrup countered: "Tourism is now California's third largest industry and second in terms of employment. Approximately 575,000 people are directly employed by California tourism, another million are indirectly employed.

"If the governor doesn't believe that this kind of business is important to our state and further believes it makes sense to destroy materials already produced to go after that business, there is something wrong somewhere and our bureau will take over the job for him."

The San Mateo County bureau president said he believes Gov. Brown was ill-informed by his staff and advisors prior to reaching his decision to abolish the Tourism Division.

Amstrup noted that in San Mateo County alone, some 36,000 people work in tourism related jobs.

"At a time when our economy needs all the help it can get," Amstrup wrote the governor. "It seems strange to me that you believe the destruction of the state coordinating agency is desired economy. I personally call this move false economy."

"I and this bureau ask that you and the legislators develop policies and programs that will encourage the health and growth of this important industry," Amstrup said.

Pacifica Council Ends Sign Study

Except for reaching some consensus on what to do about sidewalk real estate sales signs, the Pacifica council Tuesday night completed its study process of a proposed sign ordinance.

Realtor John Drew of Dolphin Real Estate agreed to take up the matter of so-called A-frame (sandwich board-style temporary signs placed at a property site) signs with the Coastside Board of Realtors. Written recommendations of what the realtors want in relation to restrictions are expected within 30 days.

Drew said the A-frames were a "tool of the trade" and wanted to know how the city intended to enforce restricted uses. He said it was one thing to control the 20 or 30 local firms, and another to police activities of firms from outside the city.

"There is not going to be any way to police this, I agree," said Mayor Stan Farber. "In all reality, this (ordinance) is a bunch of paper that means little."

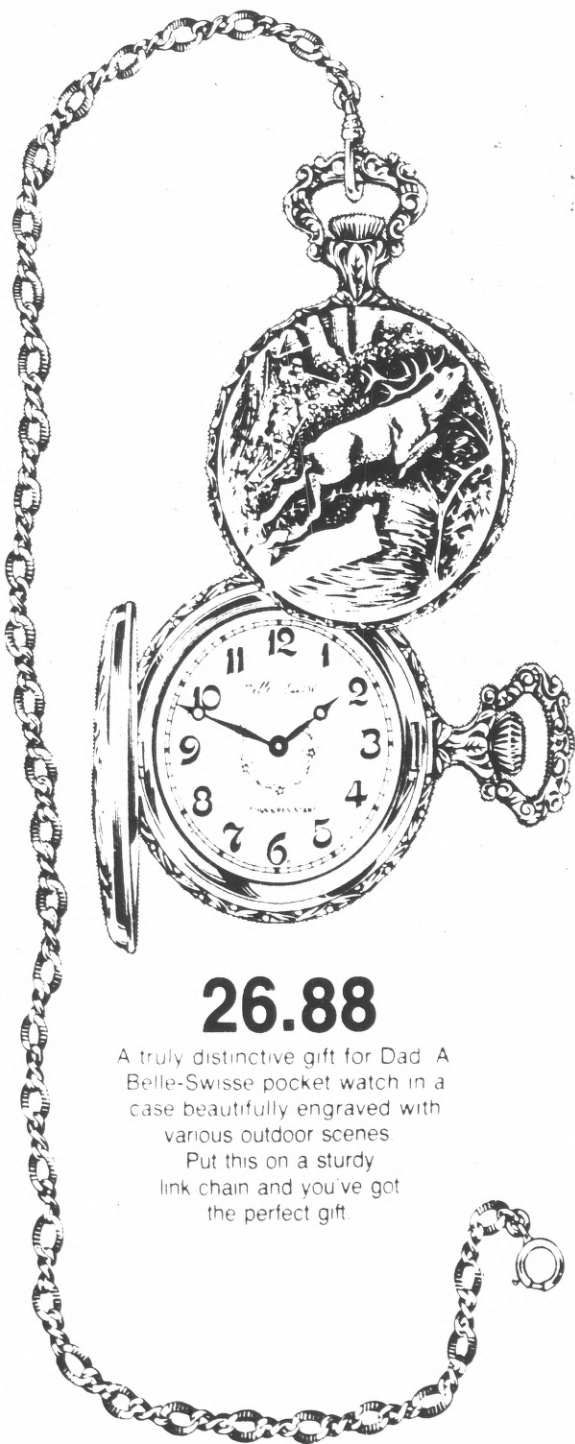

Drew also attempted to determine whether the council was against A-frames per se or whether it was just a matter of there being too many, and in undesired locations. Councilwoman Janice Fulford said, "I think they're ugly." Other council members were more concerned about sign clutter.

A proposal had been discussed to authorize the signs only on weekends and that they be allowed on the corner closest to a home being sold.

Councilman Aubrey Lumley said the city was offering one alternative — that of no A-frame signs at all.

Nursery School, Tap Dancing Set

Tap dancing is all the rage this season and Brotherhood Way Jewish Community Center announced this week that "by popular demand" an eight week adult tap dancing class (for beginners and intermediates) will begin on June 19, 1975, from 11:30 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

This once-a-week Thursday class will be taught by the center's Joan Klein, who for the past 10 years has been teaching modern dance and exercise programs to members and non-members of the Center. Mrs. Klein also teaches children ballet, rhythm and tap during the school year.

Enrollment for Mrs. Klein's tap dancing program is open to Brotherhood Way JCC members at $16.50 for the course and $35.00 for non-members. Those interested in enrolling should call the Center immediately at 334-7474.

Brotherhood Way JCC has many other exciting programs scheduled for summer '75 for children, teens, adults and senior citizens. For more information contact the Center.

The Community Center also has announced that they are now accepting registrations for the fall nursery school program, which will commence Sept. 16.

The nursery school now in its tenth year, for children 2 years and 9 months of age through 5 years old, is under the direction of Maria Solis.

Divided into groups of 10 and 15 according to their age, the children enjoy a diversified play and learning program which includes physical activities in both the gym and the outdoor area and playground, arts and crafts rooms, story-telling, music, nature hikes, field trips and creative dramatics under the careful supervision of Mrs. Solis and her trained sensitive staff. There is one staff member for every six children, in the State Licensed Nursery School.

The nursery school offers a five-day a week program

Care Program for working and student parents is also available from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Enrollment is limited so that each child will be afforded a maximum of personal attention.

SAFETY PATROL AWARDS

Police Chief Hansen and Officer Neil Hammermann present Safety Patrol captains with awards.

Safety Patrol is Honored

The Daly City School Safety Patrol members recently passed in review for the mayor and other city officials at Serramonte High School.

Westmoor High School marching band played under the leadership of Howard Loeffler.

The Benjamin Franklin Intermediate School band led by J. Sims also played.

Mayor Victor Kyriakis, councilmen William Schumacher, and Anthony Giannone addressed the gathering, honoring the Safety Patrol members for outstanding public service through the school year.

Officer Neil Hammermann and Chief of Police David Hansen presented the captains of each group with a ribbon as an award for outstanding service, by the unit.

The units then passed in review, marching around the athletic field.

Following the formal ceremony, the safety patrol members were treated to a lunch by McDonald's of Daly City at the field, and then they marched to the Plaza Theaters, where they were guests of the management for a special program.

Among the admiring guests at the ceremony were Inspector J. Johnson of the San Francisco Police Department traffic division and John Stout of the California State Automobile Association.

The patrol members were drilled by members of the Daly City Police Explorer Post, who volunteered their services at the ceremony and for several weeks prior to the big day.

Plans are already underway for next year's program to honor these outstanding young people, said Chief Hansen.

Present were units from Panorama School, Thomas Edison School, Westlake School, Daniel Webster School, M. Pauline Brown School, Abraham Lincoln School, John F. Kennedy School, Christopher Columbus School, Olympia School and Holy Angels School.

Absent were units from Franklin D. Roosevelt School and Our Lady of Perpetual Help School.

NELL NORTON

Good morning, good cooks. Before starting this column I checked through last month's recipes and see that the cookie jar has been neglected. Now how could that happen? Let's remedy the matter right now.

CONGO COOKIES

- 2 and three-fourths cups flour
- 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- two-thirds cup shortening
- 1 box light brown sugar
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 6-oz. package chocolate chips
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 eggs

In a large saucepan melt the two-thirds cup shortening and add one pound box brown sugar. Cool. Add the three eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

Sift the two and three-fourths cup flour with the two and one-half teaspoons baking powder and half teaspoon salt into the sugar-egg mixture. Mix thoroughly. Stir in the one cup nuts, six ounces chocolate chips and one teaspoon vanilla.

Spread into a 9 x 13-inch baking pan which has been lightly greased and floured. Bake in preheated oven, 350-degrees, for 25 to 30 minutes. Cool and cut into squares.

Now that we have taken care of the cookie shortage, let's consider an entree that is quite easy to make, calling for canned soup as a part of the ingredients and, since it uses ground lamb, rather inexpensive.

LAMB-MACARONI BAKE

- 4 ounces (1 and 1/3 cups) large sea shell macaroni
- 1 pound ground lamb
- one-third cup chopped onion
- 2 Tablespoons oil
- 1/4 teaspoon ground thyme
- 1 can (10 1/2-ounces) cream of mushroom soup
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/4 cup fine bread crumbs
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika

Cook the four ounces macaroni in boiling salted water according to directions on package until just tender. Drain well.

Meantime, brown one pound ground lamb and one-third cup chopped onion in two tablespoons oil until meat is lightly browned and onion is translucent. Drain off excess fat. Stir in three-fourths teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon ground thyme, and the macaroni, one can cream of mushroom soup and one cup sour cream.

Turn into a 1 1/2-quart oblong baking dish. Mix one-fourth fine bread crumbs, buttered, with one-fourth teaspoon paprika and sprinkle over lamb mixture. Bake in 350-degree oven for 25 minutes or until mixture is bubbling and heated through. Serves 4.

AN HONOR FOR THE PRINCIPAL

The Serramonte High School Parents Association recently presented Tom Mohr, the school's vice principal, with a plaque "in appreciation of outstanding and dedicated service to the students and parents of Serramonte High School."

Spindrift's Staging Days Are Changed

The opening date of the situation comedy "Any Wednesday," by Muriel Resnik, the next Pacifica Spindrift Player's production, has been changed from June 20 to June 27, and performance dates will be June 27 and 28, July 4, 5, 11 and 12, at Oddstad Center, 1050 Crespi Drive, Pacifica, curtain time 8:30 p.m.

This fast-moving comedy deals with a philandering executive, his unsuspecting wife, a diamond necklace, children's books, an unexpected guest and colorful balloons, all of which combine to make a hilarious comedy with several unexpected twists.

Ticket prices are adults $2, High School, $1.25. Children, 75 cents. Group tickets are available at reduced prices.

John Zucca Is Honored

John Zucca, owner of the Broadmoor Auto Service in Daly City, was honored at a testimonial dinner at the House of Parties recently.

Zucca has been a businessman in the area for the past 20 years, starting with the Rio Grande service station more than two decades ago.

Some 70 persons, including police, firemen and civic leaders, attended the May 29 affair, emceed by police Lt. Ed Guzman.

Terra Nova Gives Awards

Awards were presented to teachers and students from Terra Nova on May 21 at the awards assembly in the gym. Louis Pacini, Terra Nova's Journalism advisor, received an award from the Freedom Fund Foundation at Valley Forge, Penn. A medal and plaque for teaching students their basic American freedoms, presented by H. W. Carr.

Erika Rigling presented the Laguna Salada Education

Association Scholarship to Jeffrey Logan.

John Hood presented the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce scholarship to Mike Formanek and Cheryl Renck.

Patricia Reardon received the Pacifica Coastside Board of Realtors scholarship from Marvin Schneider, Pacifica's Rotary Club scholarship went to Laura Del Rosso and Brett Jorgenson by Hal Dil-saver.

Daly City Slates Senior Day Camp

The Daly City Recreation Department, in conjunction with the National Park Service, is sponsoring a senior citizens day camp program at Baker Beach the week of June 23-27.

The beach camp will be staffed by Golden Gate National Recreation Area personnel and is designed to provide recreational and educational activities geared toward seniors.

One hundred Daly City participants will have the opportunity to be involved in the 5-day session, which will include arts and crafts, music, drama, outdoor cooking, hiking and nature study.

Baker Beach is located on the perimeter of the Presidio along Lincoln Boulevard in San Francisco and will provide a valuable outdoor experience resource.

Seniors interested in participating in the program may call the recreation office at 992-5356 for information.

Registration fee is $1, insurance charge for the five-day experience.

San Bruno Train Buff Designing Bus Routes

By RICK SULLIVAN
Besides being a means of transportation, what do ancient cast-iron, steam locomotives and mini-buses have in common?

In San Bruno it's Jim Evans, a geography graduate student, whose avocation just happens to fit nicely into his present vocation.

Evans is a railroad buff, employed on a temporary basis as a planning aide for the City of San Bruno. His job: to develop, under the auspices of Assistant City Manager Jack Mulqueeny, a city-transit system.

Once aware Evans was a member of the Pacific Locomotive Association, Mulqueeny was quick to suggest that Evans, with his expertise as a train scheduling and operating coordinator for the club be charged with establishing bus routes throughout San Bruno.

For the past month, Evans has dedicated his time solely to formulating the routes, drawing extensively on knowledge gained as an active member of the PLA, the only non-profit operating railroad museum in Northern California.

According to Evans, the Pacific Locomotive Association was formed in July 1961 by several San Mateo County residents, as a non-profit educational organization. Its purpose is a historical one — to maintain in its members an interest and knowledge of the operation of locomotives and equipment of the various Pacific Coast railroads.

Evans, who received his undergraduate degree in geography from San Francisco State University and who says he's been fascinated by trains "as long as I can remember" joined the PLA in 1968.

Unlike many of the 300 members who, when they join the club are expected to familiarize themselves with the mechanical operation of these iron horses, Evans said he showed no interest in this field, so instead was asked to handle the operations end of the organization.

TRAIN BUFF

San Brunon Jim Evans, a planning aide for the City of San Bruno, is a train enthusiast, who has been charged with designing bus routes for a city transit system.

As one of the 40 active members, he is responsible for planning excursions for club members and guests and for scheduling the trains.

The association, according to Evans, over the past 14 years has acquired several locomotives, five of which are steam engines and 20 cars, including five passenger cars. The association has the largest club-owned collection of steam locomotives in California.

These pieces of rolling stock, which had been earmarked for destruction by many of the Pacific Coast railroads, instead were donated to the club. Members work in their spare time restoring and maintaining the equipment at terminal facilities off Point Molate Road at the Richmond end of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge. Near there the club operates the Castro Point Railway, two miles of track which connect with the Richmond Belt Railroad and the Santa Fe.

Evans is active in planning and scheduling periodic train rides for the club. Those operations on the Castro Point Railway are offered to the public free of charge; those excursions utilizing private track are offered for a fee.

In the past, trips have been made to Mount Shasta, across the deserts of eastern Nevada, Oregon, on the Roaring Camp Railway into the Santa Cruz Mountains, and into the Sierra Mountains.

July 4, Evans is planning a Castro Point Railway run. By July 1976, Evans is planning the opening of a three-route mini-bus run through the city of San Bruno, and the formal dedication of the city's first bus system.

Evans for over a month has been studying the three bus routes recommended by the San Bruno Traffic Safety Committee. Evans and Mulqueeny have amended the proposed routes, which are likely to be amended further before they are finally adopted by the City Council.

So far it is anticipated that the 'A' route bus will pick up passengers at the Tanforan Park Shopping Center, travel down Huntington Avenue to Lomita Park wind up to Jenevion and end at the Pacific Heights Shopping Center.

Route 'B' also will start at Tanforan, wind through the Belle Air section of the city stop at the Southern Pacific Railroad station, wind back to San Bruno Avenue then out to the United Airlines' Maintenance Base. From there the bus will go back down San Bruno Avenue, to San Mateo Avenue wind its way to the Bayhill Shopping Center. The bus will continue into the Crestmoor area, to the Pacific Heights Shopping Center and into Portola Highlands.

Route 'C' bus is expected to begin at Bayhill Shopping Center, travel up Sneath Lane and to Skyline College.

Evans said it is planned that the San Bruno buses will connect with South San Francisco buses at Tanforan, and with Pacifica buses at Skyline College.

Mulqueeny, Evans and other city officials last week drove the proposed routes in a borrowed Redwood City mini-bus to determine how long it would take for a bus to travel from one end of its route to the other. The officials determined that a time frame of 30 minutes "is acceptable." It is planned that two buses will operate on the B and C routes and one bus on the A route.

Says Evans: "We have been testing vehicles and examining various bus systems throughout the county. We're letting everyone else act as the guinea pigs, then developing our own system from the positive points of others."

"It's a neighborhood system we're designing, one which will serve all the residents of San Bruno."

Water Safety Queen Chosen

Miss Terri Smith of San Mateo has been selected to serve as "Water, Boating and Beach Safety Queen" in San Mateo County for 1975.

Terri, 18, and a graduate of El Camino High School in South San Francisco, attends San Mateo College, where she is studying Business Administration.

She is employed as a bookkeeper at Eric Electronics in Belmont.

Terri was selected not only for her beauty, but her four years participation in the American Red Cross Water Safety Programs in South San Francisco.

Her recreation and leisure time interests and experiences include theatre arts, dancing, water and snow skiing. Her future plans include San Francisco State in Business.

She will reign over the special safety meeting at Twin Pines Park in Belmont on July 8.

The Safety Services she will promote include: The various harbors, Redwood, South San Francisco, Coyote Point and Princeton; the county sheriff's rescue unit, county Civil Defense, American Red Cross, U.S. Coast Guard and Auxiliary, yacht clubs, state beaches and parks and the city recreation department swimming programs.

The County Board of Supervisors has been asked to proclaim July 8 as "Water, Boating and Beach Safety Day in San Mateo County."

Garbage Transfer Station Rapped

There could be a garbage crisis on the mid-Coastside in September unless either the present Half Moon Bay disposal site is kept open or a new transfer station is built.

The alternatives were presented to the Half Moon Bay City Council Tuesday night, along with cost estimates, by City Manager Fred Mortensen.

The problem, as Mortensen explained it, is that negotiations between San Mateo County and the scavenger company have been snagged and the proposed Ox Mountain county dump site north of Half Moon Bay may not be opened for years.

But the Half Moon Bay site, opened more than a decade ago, was to be closed in September by agreement with the federal Housing and Urban Development agency, which already has given the county about $75,000 to turn the Arleta Park dump area into a park.

HUD last year granted a "final" one-year extension of the original closing date, Mortensen said.

The council directed Mortensen to work with the county in getting another extension from HUD.

"If the dump has capacity for another one or two years and Ox Mountain has the potential for opening by then, it would be silly not to keep this one here open," Mortensen commented.

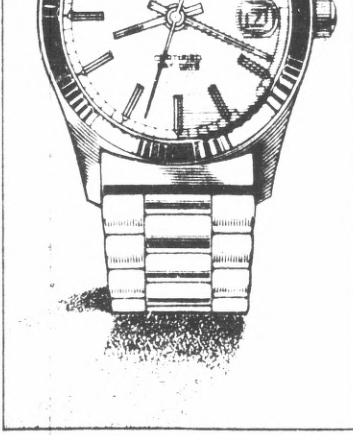

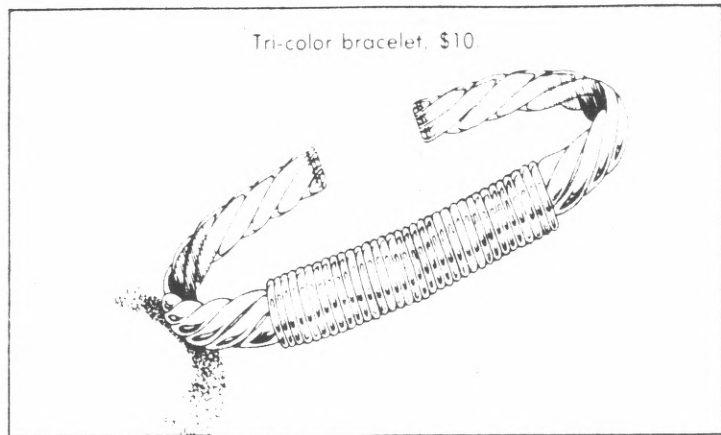

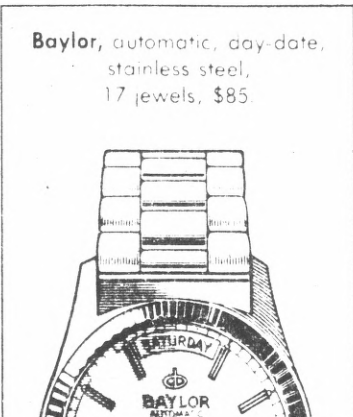

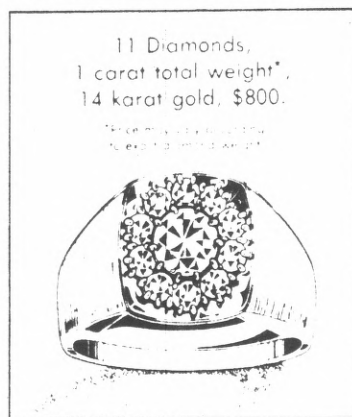

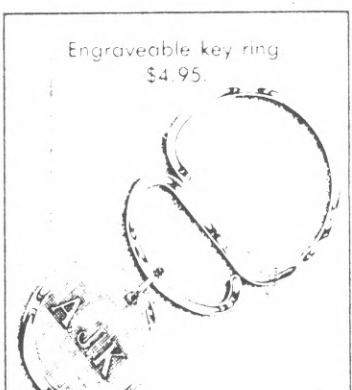

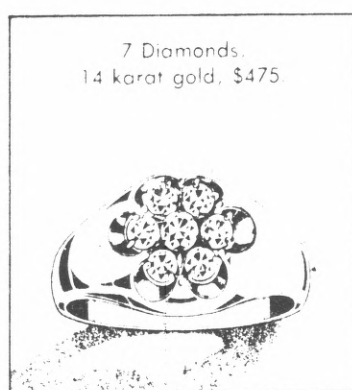

Keeping the present dump open would be the cheapest alternative for Half Moon Bay, the city manager's staff report indicated.

At the new rate of 75 cents per cubic yard for customers and the county subsidy, the total monthly operating cost of the present dump is estimated at $4,440. A third of the patronage is by Half Moon Bay residents but the city pays no subsidy, Mortensen said.

The transfer station would be built by Andreini Bros., the present dump operating contractor with the county.

A DAY WITH THE MAYOR

Daly City Mayor Victor Kyriakis met in his office recently with 15 children from the pre-kindergarten Toyland Nursery School to congratulate them on their clean-up campaign. The children toured city hall after the meeting.

National Choral Campaign

Members of the San Mateo County Choral Society are going nationwide in their financial appeal and fund-raising drive during the bicentennial year 1975-76.

They are asking relatives and friends in all 50 states to send at least $10 sustaining membership to the Choral Society, so that the fourth year of the group's organization may be underwritten for concerts in Foster City in November, Daly City in December, Millbrae in February, 1976, and for a Gala Bicentennial program in the late spring of '76.

Sustaining members from Hawaii, Texas and Colorado all ready have sent contributions, and effort to involve the other 47 states will go forward throughout the year.

All adult residents of San Mateo County are eligible for membership in the Choral Society.

Rehearsals will begin in mid-August for the 1975-76 season of concerts. Anyone interested in joining the Society should call 873-4121 for further details.

GROUND BREAKING

The City of Daly City broke ground June 4 on the San Fernando Way Widening Project. The project, first budgeted in 1969, was begun after six years of negotiations with adjoining property owners to get the additional right-of-way needed for the widening without cost to the city. The improvements include widening the roadway, adding sidewalk, and installing storm sewers. The construction is being done by Lowrie Paving Co. of South San Francisco at a cost of about $222,000. Construction is expected to take about four months. Participating in groundbreaking ceremonies were (seated) Mayor Victor G. Kyriakis, James Lowrie of Lowrie Paving Co., (standing) Councilman McRobert L. Stewart and Councilman Anthony A. Giammona.

Assembly OKs Judge Bill

The State Assembly today passed by a 61-2 vote a bill which would increase the superior court judgeships in San Mateo County from 13 to 15.

The bill authored by Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, now goes to the state senate judiciary committee, which is expected to act on it next week.

Council Upholds Use Permit Denial

South San Francisco Councilmen Wednesday night upheld an earlier Planning Commission denial of a use permit request for a convenience store in an existing gas station at 110 Hickey Blvd.

Applicants Ted and Carol Simas indicated they possibly might challenge the decision in court, saying they would make that decision at a later date.

Included in the request was the intent to engage in the sale of beer and wine. The Simas' attorney, Ted Frame, said that was the real issue.

"Some people are worried about the fact we're going to sell beer. That's the thing lurking. That's why these well-meaning ladies are here," said Frame. "The place to voice that objection is the Alcohol Beverage Control," he said.

About a half-a-dozen persons spoke in opposition to granting the use permit. None mentioned beer, although several indicated that granting the permit would create an "attractive nuisance." And most listed traffic problems as a major concern.

The Planning Commission denial of the request at the Xtra Oil Company station, which is across from a small shopping center, was based on being adverse to the public health, safety and welfare, commissioners listed five criteria to substantiate their position.

Frame rebutted these items one by one, concluding that there was no valid reason for denial.

Mrs. Simas said the original denial, which noted there was insufficient parking area, was based on "whim and not merit." She noted that steps had been taken to obtain adjacent property to meet the lack of space requirement.

She charged denial was tantamount to "encouraging restraint of trade" in that she and her husband were being "denied the right to compete in a commercially zoned area."

"Don't cloud your judgement on fantasy," she said. "We're not trying to do anything unlawful, illegal or immoral."

She-Males Meet in Millbrae

By RICK SULLIVAN

If a male has a fetish about wearing women's clothes or is a person who feels he was born into the wrong body, there's an organization interested in helping him understand his relationship to himself and to society.

In fact, that organization, the Salmacis Society, held its first major social event of the year Saturday night at Millbrae's El Rancho Inn.

At twilight, transvestite and transexual couples and singles, some dressed in formal evening attire, began arriving at the El Rancho restaurant, which was reserved for the occasion. No-host cocktails and a no-host dinner, plus dancing til 1 a.m., awaited those who had reserved tickets for the "Summer Disco."

An amiable transvestite greeted partygoers at the top of the stairs above the entrance, gave them a name tag and directed them into the lounge. Some sat at the bar, others huddled together at lounge tables talking intimately among themselves, as a juke box played popular music.

Sally Douglas, clad in a long flannel skirt, with a long-sleeve black turtleneck sweater, and Bobbie Lindberg, dressed in a long, sleeveless pink dress, were two of the first to arrive.

Sally, a transvestite and founder of the society, sipped a mixed drink and talked with Bobbie, a "he-she," about himself and the function of the organization.

"I live a lot of my life doing male things and a lot of my life doing female things," said Sally. "But I'm not the kind of person who is ashamed of my manhood. I enjoy both roles."

"There are some transvestites who merely get a kick out of wearing women's clothes. Many of these men ... try to create their idea of an ideal woman in themselves."

Bobbie has been a transexual for eight years, and is planning to undergo sex-change surgery in Oklahoma City, as soon as he can raise the necessary $4,000 needed for the operation.

"I've wanted to be a woman since I was eight years old," says Bobbie who has now reached age 46 and lives by himself in Palo Alto.

"When I was eight, I dressed up in women's clothes and my mother caught me; she didn't know what to do."

"Because you have to conform in this society," he continued, "I got a lot of harassment throughout my life, so eight years ago I decided to give up my life as a male and begin living like a female."

Stephanie, who asked that his last name not be used because he is working as a "straight female," also considers himself a transexual, but is undecided about entering into sex-change surgery.

"A lot of people who give transexuality a try, tend to jump in too quickly and want to immediately have a sex change. I don't agree. Basically, whether you are born male or female is up to nature; it's what you feel that counts."

Asked how he knew he was transexual, Stephanie answered, "It's a gut feeling, like when a male knows he wants to be a male and when a female knows she wants to be a female; like enjoying one kind of food and not another kind; it's just there."

That gut feeling, according to Sally, is estimated to be present to some degree in 15 to 20 per cent of the male population.

"Some have aspects of femininity and are hiding it in the closet. So as soon as the social atmosphere is acceptable these men, a significant minority, will bring their feelings to the surface. Hence the need for this organization," said Sally.

In Salmacis, anyone who has a stake in femininity is welcome. Its credo states "The society principally advocates social intercourse between feminine individuals and individuals with highly feminine interests. Its purpose is to provide regularly scheduled, interesting social functions, to which femmes, of either genetic sex, can come and meet and get to know each other."

Membership, according to Sally, is specifically open to feminine-gay and bi-women; to feminine persons, who have been converted from physical male to physical females by surgery or by hormone treatment; to make transvestites; male transexuals and to their wives and girl friends.

Sally, a Mountain View resident, established the Bay Area club four years ago to bring transvestites and transexuals together in social and educational functions. Since then, chapters have opened in New York, Chicago, Memphis and Los Angeles and membership is estimated at 350.

Sally is co-director of the society with Linda Lee, editor of Drag Magazine, published in New York.

"We are trying to be more and more open, with the idea that everyone is a person and should be entitled to live as he or she chooses," said Sally. "We urge those like us to join us."

Quarry Plan OKd by County

A five-year plan for the continued operation of the Lone Star Quarry near Brisbane has the approval of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

The board's action Tuesday clears the way for preparation of an environmental impact report by Quarry Products, Inc., which is operating the quarry. It is adjacent to Crocker Industrial Park.

Kirk Bottoms, Quarry Products general manager, said the quarry, which has been in operation on the 65-acre site for many years, is "very antiquated" and the company wants to upgrade it.

Furthermore, he said, the quarry is the only large source of high quality rock extant in San Mateo County.

Another factor cited by Bottoms was the cost of transporting rock — 7 1/2 cents per ton mile. To import from sources outside the county, he said, would triple the cost.

Robert L. Follette, a spokesman for Visitation Associates which plans the community development on San Bruno Mountain, said "thousands of tons" of material will be needed from the quarry over the 15-year development of the community.

Ellie Larsen, speaking for the Save San Bruno Mountain Committee, expressed concern that there had been "little coordination" in getting out environmental impact reports for three different projects involving San Bruno Mountain — the quarry, the proposed Visitation development and the San Bruno Mountain Park.

"They're not coming out at the same time," she said. "It makes it hard to make sense out of what is going on."

Ralph Rogers Jr., whose trucking firm has the contract to haul from the quarry, urged approval of the concept plan, noting that it provides employment for up to 125 independent truck drivers.

He was supported by a number of wives of truck drivers who were present to request approval of the concept plan.

Bottoms noted that the quarry itself employs 30 men.

Dr. Paul Goercke, a member of the Brisbane City Council, informed the board the council had taken a position of neither endorsing nor opposing the concept plan.

County Planning Director Donald A. Woolfe said it will be about 120 days before the environmental impact report can be prepared, reviewed, submitted to the county planning commission and sent on to the Board of Supervisors for final action.

PROCLAMATION MADE

A proclamation recently was made by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors in support of the specialized children's services of the public health and welfare department recently. At the presentation of the proclamation were (from left) Cynthia McKenna, supervisor of specialized children's services, social service division of country public health and welfare department; John McCoy, a member of the Family and Children's Services Advisory Committee; and James Fitzgerald, a San Mateo County supervisor.

Coastside to Shoot Dogs

A Coastside rancher was given permission to kill marauding dog packs Thursday night by sheriff's deputies after he complained 11 of his sheep have been killed during the past few months.

He showed them the carcasses of two dead animals and a third badly injured one Thursday night.

Sheriff's Deputies Francis Gagnon and John Krahn informed Angelo C. Gianini, whose ranch is located about a quarter mile south of Half Moon Bay on Cabrillo Highway, that he is perfectly within his legal rights to shoot the dogs if he sees them killing his animals.

His wife, Eileen, said two other animals were killed two weeks ago when the Coastside's annual Chamarrita celebration was held in Half Moon Bay, and a pack of four hounds has pulled rabbits and fowl through fences as well as molesting the sheep.

'Friends' Discuss Events of the Past

Three Daly City women discussed past events at the annual meeting program of the Friends of the Daly City Library recently in the council chambers at city hall under chairmanship of Mrs. Hubert Sandefur.

The interviews were video-taped under supervision of Daly City Community Services Librarian John Sullivan and were conducted by Friends' member Helen Stout.

Florence Widowsky recalled her experiences during the 1906 earthquake, when she was a young bride.

Former elementary school principal Elizabeth Hahn recalled unpaired streets and early school days. Early school system days and an interest in child welfare were a remembrance of former elementary school teacher Lillian Fletcher, who taught under former Superintendent Savage.

Sullivan prefaced the program with a discussion of the evolution and probable future of the role of the public librarian and with an explanation of the equipment used in video taping.

Also shown was a tape he made of the annual migration of elephant seals during breeding season to Point Ano Nuevo on the southernmost coast of San Mateo County.

One shot was taken of Karen Cunningham, library assistant, courageously standing beside a giant, sleeping bull to emphasize the huge size of such an animal compared to a human being.

A book, "Scotland's Heritage" by Lawrence Stenhouse, was presented to the Daly City Library by Mrs. James Hough on behalf of The Friends' board in honor of Mrs. Connolly's year of presidency. Mrs. Connolly is a native of Scotland.

Officers were elected for the year 1975-76.

Flag Day Rites at Center

Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, will be principal speaker at Flag Day ceremonies at Serramonte Center 2 p.m. June 14.

The observance is part of the center's Bicentennial celebration. Members of Boy Scout Troops 369 and 15 and Pack 15 will present 12 historic American flags dating back to the Revolutionary War.

Included will be the banner carried by minutemen at the Battle of Concord.

A flag which has been flown over the Capitol in Washington, D.C. will be donated to Daly City for use at the new Serramonte library.

Other groups participating in the ceremonies will include the Conquistadores Drum and Bugle Corps from South San Francisco and a U.S. Navy Color Guard from Treasure Island.

Children attending the ceremonies will be given miniature American flags and coloring books depicting historic revolutionary themes.

Serramonte Center is located at Highway 280 and Serramonte Boulevard in Daly City.

Trustees Will Be Synagogue Topic

Sabbath services will be held in the sanctuary of Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie Street, Daly City, beginning at 8:30 p.m. June 13.

"What Makes a Trustee" is the sermon topic selected by Rabbi Ira Book.

Rabbi Book will be assisted by the choir.

Dedication of the Torah Mantle in honor of Grace Chaliff will be observed. The mantle will be used during appointed periods during the year to cover the holy scrolls.

These scrolls, the Torah, are written in ancient Hebrew, by a scribe, using a quill pen and a specially formulated vegetable ink. Portions are read from the Torah every Saturday morning and on holy days.

Another highlight of the June 13 evening service will be the installation of the synagogue's officers by Rabbi Book.

An Oneg Shabbat (social hour) will follow the service. Sabbath morning services will be conducted at 10 a.m. June 14, by Rabbi Book.

The biblical chapter "Korach - The Rebellion of Korach against Moses" will be read. Services will be followed by Kiddush.

Lucero Wins Appellate Fight

Trouble-plagued Daniel Lucero, the Pacifica ex-GI, this week moved a step closer towards custody of his four-year-old illegitimate son.

The state Appellate Court division in San Francisco Tuesday denied a petition by the boy's adoptive parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Logsdon of Belmont, to keep the youngster pending fitness hearings involving Lucero.

The court said that the Logsdons, custodians of the boy for three years, can keep him until Monday.

There was no immediate indication whether the Logsdons would appeal to the California Supreme Court.

The decision upholds one made by San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn that the youngster be turned over to Lucero immediately, after Cohn ruled that Lucero had a legal right to his son. Lucero calls the boy Antonio, the Logsdons call him Kim.

Stephen Adams of San Francisco, attorney for the couple, opposed the transfer of custody prior to fitness hearings, which involve arrests and jail terms on burglary and possession of stolen property charges for Lucero.

Lucero, 23, has waged a three-year court battle to win custody of the child, who was given up for adoption at the age of 15 months by its mother while Lucero was in the Army.

On April 18, Lucero was sentenced to 60 days in county jail for a misdemeanor burglary in South San Francisco.

San Mateo Justweds 1st Home

San Mateo is the first address for Mr. and Mrs. Paul David Corey (Barbara Yriberri) who were married at St. Robert's Catholic Church in San Bruno.

The Rev. Fabian Parmisano performed the rites for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Yriberri of Daly City, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Corey of Los Angeles.

A reception followed at the Beresford Community Center. After greeting guests, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in Hawaii.

Christine Castro was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids included Diane Cresci, Susan Claudius, sister of the bridegroom, and Kristin Kanevich. Ilene Claudius served as the flower girl.

Paul asked his new brother-in-law, Bill Yriberri, to be the best man. Jim Valenti and Gordon Claudius performed ushering duties.

Museum Sets New Classes

"The Care of Birds of Prey" is among the interesting courses being offered this summer at the Coyote Point Museum for Environmental Education.

Cliff Lindquist of the Peninsula Humane Society and Max Krueger of the California Department of Fish and Game are instructing the "Care of Birds of Prey." Recommended for grades 5 and up, the afternoon class will be taught on June 25.

Other afternoon classes include the following: "Proper Care and Use of Microscopes," July 2; "Pressed Plant Pictures," July 10; "Snakes, Snakes and More Snakes," July 17; and "Meet the Museum Animals," July 23.

The museum will begin teaching summer classes on June 21 with "Foraging for Fun," a search for edible plants and animals to discover foods to prepare as early Peninsulans once did. A good project for children and their parents to share, the course will be limited in size and appetites curbed in the interest of conservation.

A series of four Tuesday morning sessions have been scheduled for pre-school and kindergarten children who can easily range through woods and marsh learning "Plants Are Fun." The dates are July 8, 15, 22 and 29.

Other classes convening in the morning include a "Watershed Walk" to study five different habitats, June 26; "Tidepooling" at Moss Beach, July 14; a study of what is "In and Around a Creek," July 24; and a field trip to "Explore the Sand Caves," July 26.

Still other morning classes include "Beach Exploration at Coyote Point" (a good choice for the younger set), July 29; "The Muddy Marsh," July 31; "Invent an Animal," Aug. 6; and "Mask Making With Natural Materials," Aug. 7. The latter two offer great opportunity art istic ally to the very creative individuals without diminishing the learning experience and fun for the not-so-skilled.

The majority of classes are designed with age limit to include both children and adults.

Most of the summer sessions are offered at a very nominal fee, and details may be obtained from the Coyote Point Museum, a division of the San Mateo County Parks and Recreation Department.

Orchard Marriage Site

Nob Hill Ranch in Pescadero was the setting for the recent marriage of Nadine Carol Bourell and Jonathan Lloyd Cardoni.

The wedding and the reception took place in a 70-year-old apple orchard on the ranch. The Rev. Bill Armstrong officiated.

Nadine is the daughter of Mrs. James DeYoung of Pacifica and Herbert R. Bourell. She was given in marriage by her father. Jonathan is the son of Lloyd T. Cardoni, mayor of Half Moon Bay, and of Mrs. Cardoni.

The bride wore an ecru gown designed with a lace bodice with a high neckline and long, full sleeves and a layered chiffon skirt.

Christine Gonzales served as the maid of honor and bridesmaids were Gail Bunting, Candy Carter and Patricia Carter.

Larry Feldman was best man and guests were seated by Jim Bourell, brother of the bride, John Romani and Jerry Vermola.

The couple is at home in El Granada after a wedding trip to Tahoe and Northern California.

Nadine was graduated from Terra Nova High School and the College of San Mateo and attended San Francisco State University. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma honor society.

Jonathan was graduated from Half Moon Bay High School, where he was active in sports and is now in business with his father. He is the brother of Mrs. Michael Forrest.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. How many married women earn their own social security coverage?

A. About 19 million married women work in jobs covered under social security. This is about 40 per cent of all married women, compared to 30 per cent in 1960. Almost half of all retired women get monthly social security benefits on their own work records.

Answers provided by Miss Margaret Tama, Manager, Social Security Office.

Le Pacini 'Underrated' Champ Dies'

Ezzard Charles, the former heavyweight champ who died last week, was one of those athletes about whom it is said so often that he is underrated that, after a period of time, he is no longer underrated.

As a boxing fan, we were peculiar, in that most of our heroes were classy boxers. Perhaps because of our ethnic background, our main heroes were Italians — Willie Pep, Joey Maxim, and Rocky Marciano. Marciano, of course, being the one basic exception to our peculiar tastes in fighters styles.

We never particularly liked Charles, because he outboxed Maxim five times in five tries, and because he gave Marciano two of the best fights the Rock ever had when Marciano was at his peak and Charles was supposedly over the hill. (Charles was ages 32 and 33 when he lost a 15 round decision to Rock, and when he almost knocked his nose off before being KO'd in the eighth round.)

But deep in our heart, we knew how good he was. Dammit, he could box (remember, he outboxed foxy Maxim five, count 'em, five times), take a punch (if not, how did he go 15 against the Rock, taking perhaps one of the most fearsome head beatings in heavyweight history?), and hit ... or would one call 58 KO's in 96 wins a flash in the pan? And he had character, defending his title against tough opponents eight times in 18 months.

Hell no, Charles was not and is not underrated. In fact, in our book, he was good enough to be an Italian.

COUPLE OF WEEKS ago during that Giant losing streak, we told you baseball fans not to panic, because the Giant kids would do OK, and in fact that we felt the Giants had the best team in their division, aside from the Dodgers.

But just as we were about to launch into our reasons for saying such rash things about what was then a losing team, we ran into space problems and never got to use up our notes. So following is what we were going to say about the Giant kids (the youngest team in the majors — average age, 25) two weeks ago:

The reason we feel that the Giants can bet out The reason we feel that the Giants can beat out improve as much as the Giants' does, because Cincy pitchers are older. Ironically, the Reds have the same glaring weakness in the field that the Giants do, namely third base.

But if Ed Goodson can do even a barely adequate job defensively at third base and finally starts hitting the way he can, the Giants will present a tough lineup with Goodson, Murcer, Montenez, Speier, Matthews and Joshua, not necessarily in that order.

As for Giant pitching, while it is not good to lose a pitcher with the potential of John D'Aquisto, it could be a minor blessing in disguise, in that it will allow a four rather than five man rotation (as it turned out, Ed Halicki was called up to fill in that fifth spot very well.)

Most pitchers, as Jim Barr continues to point out, don't like or need that extra day's rest a five man rotation affords them. They can stay sharper working a day earlier. We feel that in Barr, John Montefusco, Pete Falcone and Mike Caldwell, the Giants have a solid front four, especially if Caldwell can just get a little sharper.

How many teams can you name that have four reasonably effective starters? How many can you name with three? Now, if only Randy Moffitt could get his physical ailments straightened away, it's the Giants for another of their fabled second place finishes.

ATTACHED TO THAT, a comment from Marty Coil, the Terra Nova High baseball coach who, as we reported a couple of weeks ago, has been doing some batting practice pitching for the Giants.

Coil, a former Giant farm hand, has at one time or another played with most of the young Giants, and has been pleasantly surprised over what he has observed.

"Sometimes, you know, guys get to the majors, and, frankly, they become fat heads. Forget their old friends. Not so with the Giants. They've all treated me as one of them, they're all just the same guys they were in the minors, only better players."

"There are no 'stars' on the team. They all get along and play as a team."

"I'll tell you, I've got a feeling. We may be seeing a baseball version of the Warriors developing." Coil said.

THERE WAS A LOT of talk about how Al Attles used his bench this past year, especially during the playoffs, but nobody did much about actually spelling it out, so we have.

In the six playoff games against Seattle, Attles used an average of 5.7 subs a game as against the Sonics' 5.0, and Warrior and Seattle subs both averaged 15.3 minutes playing time per game.

In only two games did Bill Russell use as many subs as Attles, but in both games Attles' subs played longer (21.5 to 20.5 and 17.4 to 14.0). Warrior subs used up 56 per cent of substitute playing time in the series, Seattle subs, 44 per cent.

There was a bigger margin against Chicago, as Attles used 5.3 subs per game against Motta's 4.3, and Attles' subs averaged 13.1 minutes a game, Motta's 11.7. Motta was uneven in his use of subs. That first game lost to the Warriors represented the only game in the playoffs in which a coach used more substitutes and more substitute playing time than Attles, as Chicago utilized seven subs averaging 10.6 minutes, while the Warriors used six bench men for 11.3.

In the third game, Motta once again used his subs for more minutes than Attles (they each used four subs), as his men averaged 17, the Warriors, 10.8. In the sixth game, Motta once again used more subs than Attles — the only coach in the playoffs to do it at all, let alone twice — although his five men averaged only 10 minutes a shot, while Attles' four put in 16, for more total minutes.

All told, the Warrior extras used up 57.9 per cent of the total substitute time, the Bulls, 42.1.

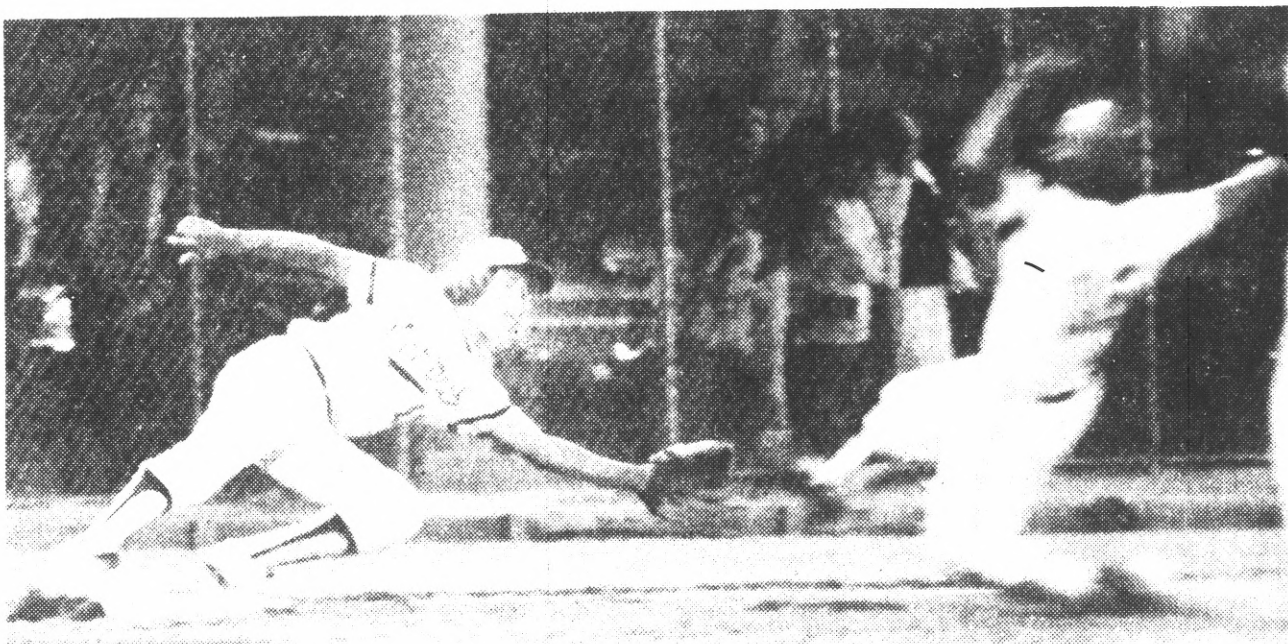

But it was against the Bulls that Attles apparently really realized that he had on the bench, while K.C. Jones demonstrated an unwillingness to rest his regulars.

There wasn't a game among the four that Jones came even close to instituting as much substitute time as Attles, as Warriors' subs were used at a rate of 6.25 a game against 4.5, averaged 15.6 minutes against 10.6, and took up 67.2 per cent of the substitute time.

In aggregate, the Warriors used 5.7 subs a game during the playoffs, their opponents, 4.5. Warrior extras averaged 14.4 minutes a game, opponents, 12.9. The Warriors' subs used up 58.6 per cent of the total substitute time put in, opponents, 41.4.

MISCELLANY: Believe it or not, as I write this, and according to the most recent N.L. attendance statistics, the Giants are out-drawing the White Sox, Twins and Atlanta.

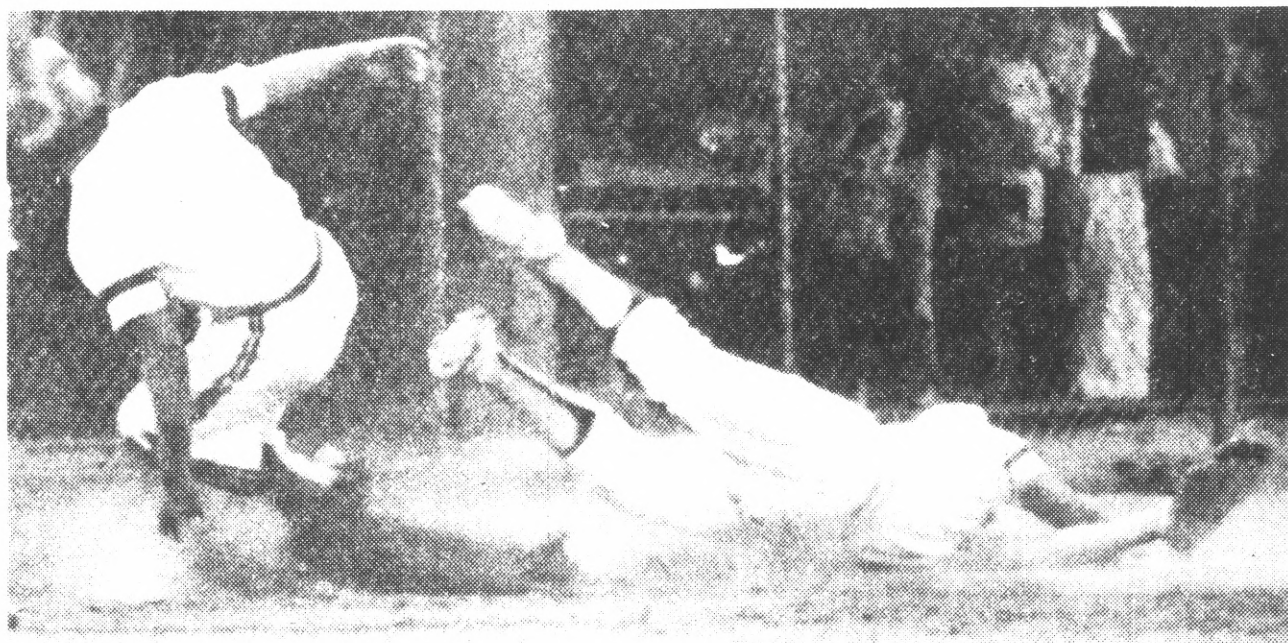

The Giants may seem to be leaving a lot of men on base, but they're no worse and in fact better than a lot of teams in that stat. They are among the seven worst hitting teams in the majors and last in the big leagues in homers, yet they are 14th among the 24 teams in runs scored and have scored more than any of the others of those other six worst hitting teams.

FIRST THE STEAL ...

El Camino High's John Rico tears into third base Friday night in the Central Coast Section baseball tournament against Oak Grove. Rico had stolen second, and came to third when the catcher's throw to second went awry. The throw to third was off too — the ball is a blur behind Rico's left foot.

THEN THE GETAWAY

The throw to third went down the left field line, and Rico dashed home with the game's only run. North Peninsula League champion El Cam-

Colts Break Stranglehold

El Camino Win Coast Baseball Title

By JERRY LITTELL
Times Correspondent

SAN JOSE — Beating the odds at every conceivable point along the way, El Camino High broke Region III's four-year stranglehold on the Central Coast Section baseball title Saturday night by pulling another upset.

This time the Colts did it with a 9-3 shellacking of Wilcox, a team many thought Camino might have trouble even making contact against, let alone score nine runs.

The Colts now join Terra Nova as the only Region I teams (NPL, MPL shift WCAL) who have won CCS baseball crowns. Terra Nova did it in 1969.

Pre-game reports stated that El Camino could not hit the curveball. Wilcox was starting ace right-hander Chuck Carbis, who has one of the best breaking pitches in the section. On paper, it shouldn't have been a contest.

But Carbis didn't have much control of his curve, and when he did get it over Camino ripped. In fact John Rico, EC's leadoff batter, set the example by stroking Carbis' first curve into left field for a sharp single.

Colt senior right-hander Gene Montgomery, who hadn't seen mound duty in nearly a month, was wild (as expected) but was also extremely tenacious. Seldom did any two of his pitches go in the same area, but what Montgomery lacked in finesse, he more than made up for with an overpowering fastball and surprisingly good slider.

Montgomery was in constant trouble from the first inning on. Most of it was due to his 11 walks, but then he came out of most of those jams with one or two of his 14 strikeouts.

He had a no-hitter going into the fifth, and by that time Camino was already ahead 9-0 and obviously in command.

The Colts had two big innings. Three runs came across in the third when Rico and Mike Leiva walked, Ken Witsoe singled in a run, Tim McGrew singled in another, and Witsoe scored on the front end of a double steal.

El Camino put it away in the sixth with a six-run outburst. Witsoe singled, Montgomery walked, McGrew singled in a run, Bob Humphrey walked to load the bags and a walk to Gary Ottonello forced in a run. Rico singled in two more runs and Leiva cleared the bases with a triple.

"It has to be regarded as a sheer gutty performance by Montgomery," said grinning Colt coach Lou Zuardo. "He never once buckled under to the pressure. He just kept firing the ball."

One of those split-second decisions to gamble, which has been known to make ballplayers either goats or heroes, turned El Camino's John Rico into the latter Friday night and pointed the Colts toward the 1975 Central Coast Section baseball championship.

Rico's alert base running and the splendid pitching of junior right-hander Bob Humphrey gave the Colts a 1-0 verdict over favored Oak Grove and pits Camino against Wilcox, a 12-2 winner over Hollister Friday, for the CCS title.

El Camino coach Lou Zuardo has named right-hander Gene Montgomery to pitch this 1975 finale against the ace of the Wilcox staff, senior curve-baller Chuck Carbis, who was held out of Friday's game in the hopes of having him rested for the championship encounter.

Montgomery, who hasn't pitched in nearly a month, has a very tough act to follow.

Humphrey, who entered the game with an 8-0 record, had to go against Bob Ash, who had the area's top record of 15-0. Something had to give. It all gave out in the dramatic third inning.

With two out Rico walked, a rarity since Ashe had given up an average of only three-fourths of a walk per game this entire year. This one will haunt him for some time.

Rico stole second and in one continuous sequence the Eagles made all three of their errors. The catcher's throw to try to get Rico at second tailed off into center field. The throw back to the infield bounced away from the shortstop and rolled towards the mound.

Rico completely stopped for a moment. He sped headlong into third and when the shortstop's throw to third bounced down the left field line he came in with the only run Humphrey needed.

Humphrey, pitching his fourth shutout in the last seven games, gave up a first inning single and another in the fourth, but retired eight of the last nine batters he faced and the last five in a row. Not bad for a pitcher considered the fifth best on the Camino staff at the start of the season.

Almost every pitch Humphrey threw moved. His slider and curve kept the Eagle batters off balance all night, and he really faced only one serious threat.

In the fourth inning OG's Dave Gulzow tried to come home on a two-out suicide squeeze bunt by Mark Helstrom. But Helstrom obviously interfered with catcher Gary Ottonello's attempted tag. Gulzow was called out and the only Eagle threat vanished.

Ashe, a little off from his usual control mastery, nevertheless pitched well enough to win any game, striking out six and walking two as he continually managed to clip away at the outside corner for strikes.

Hurdles and Relay

Regents Make State Finals

By DICK DRAPER

Times Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO — The "Tony Hicks Show" premiered on San Diego television Friday, but the Serramonte High hurdler had to wait hours to learn if he had won an Emmy at the State prep track and field meet.

The movie was entitled, "The Man Who Didn't Exist."

Hicks ran third in the 330 low hurdles — good enough to qualify for today's finals — but judges apparently had their eyes closed.

Hicks' name wasn't on the finish list. His name wasn't announced over the speaker system. Both Hicks and Regent Coach Mike Rueda were puzzled.

Hours after the race was run, officials viewed a videotape of the finish and declared that Hicks had indeed run, and had indeed finished third.

Serramonte was the lone County school to perform well in the meet. The Regent mile relay team, Ron Kennedy in the 120 high hurdles and Hicks in the 330 lows made today's finals.

Also in the finals were Myrt Easley of Woodside, who qualified second in the triple jump with a leap of 48-11, and Mitch Kingery of San Carlos in the two mile (no qualifying was required for that event).

Meantime, you'd have expected Kennedy to start trembling when he saw rival Dedy Cooper of Harry Ells High in Richmond zip to a national record 13.2 in a high hurdles qualifying heat.

Nope. Not a quiver. All it did was make Kennedy more confident — at least on the surface — as he prepared for this afternoon's finals.

"I think I can run 13.2 too," explained

Kennedy, whose 13.9 clocking won the third heat and was fourth best overall. "I'll just go out there and beat them all. It's better competition and I know I can run harder."

Kennedy has lost only two high hurdles events this year — both to Cooper — despite a troublesome right knee, which bothered him slightly Friday.

Cooper may prove to be Hicks' nemesis as well. Cooper was the top qualifier in the 330 lows at 36.2 (Hicks had run 37.6). Cooper also anchored the fastest 440 and mile relay teams in qualifying.

Hicks, also entered in the 120 highs, almost fell twice in his qualifying heat and finished fourth (the top three qualify) in 14.2.

Serramonte's mile relay team gained the finals thanks to three sensational legs by Hicks, Alvin Diles and Kennedy.

Dan Martinelli, subbing for brother Jim — out with a virus — in the leadoff spot, was sixth after the initial quarter mile. But Hicks took the Regents to fourth, and Diles closed ground on third. Kennedy battled to make third in the heat.

The Regents' time was 3:19.2, a County record, besting the 3:19.9 run by San Mateo earlier this season. San Mateo's quartet of Gary Davis, Bob Mardis, Andy Gustavson and Bob Foulke failed to qualify. Ells of Richmond (with Cooper anchoring) led three teams under 3:17 with a 3:16.5 time.

Ocean's Bill LaFroge was disappointed after finishing ninth in his mile heat.

"There was too much knocking around," said the senior. "I tried to get out but I couldn't — I was boxed in on the inside. People were knocking me, spitting on me. It was crazy. I just couldn't concentrate."

Serramonte's Tony Hicks

Then things got worse. His sweatshirt was stolen.

Both County high jumpers failed to make the finals.

6-6 on his third try but he couldn't manage 6-7. Carlmont's Larry Wright jumped 6-4, but missed at 6-5.

"I just wasn't getting up at all," said Dillard. "When I have a good jump I just feel a pop — but I didn't pop today. It was me all the way, though. It was strictly an off day." Dillard had gone into the meet with a 6-8 best, Wright with a 6-9.

Woodside's 440 relay team, which had the second best time in the state going into the meet, ran into trouble.

"We were really clicking during the week — damn, damn, damn," said disappointed Wildcat anchor man Robert Sweet following the quartet's sixth place finish.

A sloppy third handoff hurt the Wildcats, who ran 42.5, ninth tenths of a second off their season best. Ells of Richmond, with Cooper (who else?) anchoring, ran 41.1, best in the state this year.

Also not qualifying in the 440 relay was Serramonte's quartet of Mitchell Lockett, Kennedy, Hicks and Diles. They finished fifth in 42.2, their best time of the season.

"Kennedy had to slow down for the handoff and here you've gotta do everything right," explained Diles. "We've had problems with handoffs all year, but this week we've been doing pretty good. I'm disappointed, but just being here was something."

Mills High's Steve Vasquez was blanked in the 880 and reported he felt blah. "I was shooting for the finals, but I just didn't have it on the last lap. They went out fast, like 54 or 55 seconds (for the first lap); they were just zipping."

He finished sixth in his heat with a 1:56.8, well off the 1:53.5 best he'd run last week.

All-Coast Conference

San Mateo County players dominated the 14-man All-Coast Conference baseball team with seven selections.

Skyline landed second baseman Reid Gotthardt (.371), third baseman Doug Morganti (.324) and outfielders Bruce Olmanson (.379) and Steve Sbragia (.313). All but Sbragia are sophomores. As a pitcher Sbragia had a 5-3 record and 3.06 E.R.A., eighth best in the league.

Menlo picks were outfielder Greg Sancier, the Coast batting champ at .417, shortstop Dan English (.414) and pitcher John Pachetti (.7-2), all soph.

Player of the year was Cabrillo pitcher Steve Glaum (8.2, 0.64 E.R.A.).

Menlo had the league's top three hitters in Sancier, English and pitcher-outfielder Rick Michelmore (.380). Ranked fourth and fifth were Skyline's Olmanson and Gotthardt, while Morganti was No. 11. Sancier and English shared the league lead in hits (34) and runs scored (19) in 18 games. Sancier was also the pacesetter in home runs (four), RBI (21) and triples (five).

Skyline shared second place in the final Coast standings with Hartnell at 12-6 behind champ Cabrillo (14-4). Menlo was fourth, a game back at 11-7.

ARCHITECTS, HOME OWNERS CONTRACTORS, DEVELOPERS

Improving our environment can be your best investment...

We believe with rising prices and the general concern over the economy there has been some slackening in home improvement. Looking ahead, with a practiced marketer's eye, your investment in land and buildings could well triple over the next ten years. Don't overlook the economic profit in landscaping either in your investment property or of your own home. Regular and timely refurbishing of existing landscaping with shade trees, flowering shrubs and annual color can not only enhance the beauty of your property, but can greatly appreciate the value of your property. Remember, the first impact of your home on yourself, your family, friends, and prospective customers begins (and often ends) at the outside. BEAUTIFICATION STARTS IN YOUR GARDEN. To help counteract inflation we are now offering quantities of our high quality stock at wholesale prices. For example:

THE PERFECT HOST

Lejon Extra Dry Champagne, 5th
Even if you don't attend a wedding or graduation this month you can enjoy a chilled bottle of Lejon Extra Dry Champagne. This white champagne is slightly sweeter and more full-bodied than the more colorful pink champagne. Although frequently considered as a beverage for special occasions, champagne is equally enjoyable during cocktail hour, at brunch or at a picnic. Lejon Extra Dry Champagne is $2.99 a fifth.

Sparks at Bruno Council Meeting

Smoking at public meetings remains a hot issue in San Bruno.

Embers continued to fly at Monday night's City Council meeting over the issues of the right to smoke and the right to breathe clean air.

It seems unclear at this point whether clean air or smoke will fill the council chambers, but if Monday night's behavior is any indication, it seems likely that smoke, at least from Councilman Tony Governale's cigarette will continue to curl to the ceiling. Governale is the lone smoking councilman.

After almost an hour of debate on the issue, culminating in a 3-2 vote to request smoking be done outside all public meetings, Governale defied the request and lighted a cigarette during council proceedings, while others in the audience left the chambers to inhale tobacco.

Two weeks ago, Governale warned his fellow councilmen that he would go to jail if he had to, rather than not smoke. The council, then, at the request of Maureen Glew, a Ridgeway resident, voted to ban smoking in the council chambers.

At Monday night's meeting a sign was attached by an unknown person to the curtains behind Governale's council seat stating "jail," with an arrow pointing outside the chambers.

Governale, at a previous council meeting, called the smoking ban "a direct violation of my rights." Monday night he embellished on his position, but not before several other council made their opinions of smoking clear.

Commented Mayor John Bernard: "As a member of this council all I ask is that a smoker exercise control and respect his fellow councilmen. This is a difficult issue, and I don't pretend to make Solomon-like decisions; I'm only a country boy with a damn poor education. I welcome comments from the council."

"There was a time," said Councilman Dick Griffith, "when smokers asked others if they would mind if they smoked; it was a courtesy; but this courtesy seems to have vanished."

Mrs. Tina Toschi, a Mastick Avenue resident, told the council, "I think you should pass an ordinance banning smoking altogether."

Rec. Facility Asked

The San Bruno Parks and Recreation Commission recommended to the City Council Wednesday night that a 1,000 square-foot recreation facility be built at Portola Highlands School Park.

The commissioners, after discussing the proposal, asked for a show of hands from the 30 persons attending the meeting, and according to Assistant Supt. of Parks and Recreation Mike Doerner, all but two persons, raised their hands to indicate they favored construction of the facility.

Doerner said no official of the Portola Highlands Homeowners Association attended the 5:30 p.m. meeting.

Two weeks ago, the homeowners' association voted overwhelmingly to recommend to the commission that the facility not be built. A week later, however, a petition signed by 97 residents of Portola Highlands, who supported construction of the small facility, was presented to the commission.

Since that time several meetings of the commission have been held, with often heavy debate between the commission and the homeowners' association.

Asked to comment on the commission decision, Elmer Butler, president of the homeowners' association said, "We think the commission made a decision based on information contained in the petition presented to them. If the association input was disregarded they (commissioners) will have to stand responsible for that."

Butler said many Portola Highlands homeowners could see no useful purpose in constructing another recreation facility "since excellent facilities already exist at Portola Highlands School."

According to Doerner, the facility will be used as a neighborhood clubhouse primarily for youth, and include carpeting, rest rooms, storage areas, and portable recreation equipment such as ping-pong tables and pools tables.

Estimated cost for construction of the building is $30,000.

Doerner said the building could be open three to six months after City Council approval.

Senior Forum Picnic Set In San Mateo

Mrs. James (Bernie) Neilson, president of the Senior Forum reports that 500 senior citizens from the 53 Senior Citizens Clubs from throughout the county will attend the seventeenth picnic.

All Senior Californians are invited to attend the picnic June 20, 11 a.m. at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds, San Mateo.

Hawaiian motif will prevail.

The Butlar family, Hungarian-Americans, will entertain.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Join the 16th Annual Vacation Advertisers

Bright Lights' 16th Annual Dine-Out, Vacation and Travel Guide, one of the best advertising buys to alert readers where and when to dine and have fun, will be published Friday, June 13, in the San Mateo Times and Wednesday, June 18 in The Post, San Bruno Herald, Recorder Progress and Coastside Chronicle. Nevada Tours reports a brisk Lake Tahoe business. Free coupons galore with each and every package. For an exciting trip, this is it. One of the after-dark bright lights at Nick Gust's Rockaway Beach Moonraker is the illumination of the Pacific Ocean's breakers while dining. The tiered dining room and lounge offer a nautical view from every table. For seafood prepared at home, suggest you visit Vince Licata's Seafood Depot. You'll find fish of the sea (in season) for those home cooked meals. Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant, located next door, can take care of your dine-out whims. Lehr's Greenhouse garden restaurant in San Francisco is a photographer's paradise, and many of the luncheon, dinner and Sunday brunch guests bring along their cameras. The restaurant, a beautiful garden in full bloom, is photogenic from just about any angle.

SALUTO!

The three owners of La Parmigiana, (L to R) Adrian Giannini, La Pelligrini and Carlo Caminiti, make a toast to success after the debut of their new Redwood City restaurant.

Scotty Campbell's "Happiest Hour"

Did you know that Scotty Campbell's is the only Peninsula dinner house featuring "Happiest Hour" in the late evenings till closing? Take "Bright Lights" word for it, these are mighty "happy hours." The menu at this Redwood City restaurant is superior, with prime ribs of beef being a "prime" favorite. What's this I hear about Enrico Romano planning a world cruise, with Italy being his first stop? Could this mean the "king" is thinking about adding new items to this Rockaway Beach restaurant menu? It would seem to us that he already serves just about every kind of pizza known to man, plus a wide variety of Italian dishes. But knowing Romano, one never knows what his next move will be. Parking is no problem at Frank Torres Montara restaurant-hotel. A scenic drive along Coast Highway One and you park almost doorside. The vista view from the dining room is a sight to behold. The Peninsula Avenue Omelette House specializes in omelettes of many varieties, sandwiches and salads. Also house favorites are mulled wine and spiced cider.

Palo Alto Shirt Tail Dinner Specials

Crepes Fegato (crepes filled with fresh chicken livers and sliced mushrooms) is one of the $3.95 dinner specials to be featured this week at the Shirt Tail in Palo Alto. Available Monday through Saturday from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m., these specials for the budget conscious include salad or soup, dessert and beverage. Combination dinners, House Specialties and Chef's Specials are categories found on the menu at La Fonda de El Camino. This quaint Mexican restaurant, owned by Jesse and Carmen Lepe, also offers fine wines and Mexican beers. Live music and dancing are Wednesday-through-Saturday attractions at Bayhill Lounge, in San Bruno. Currently appearing are Joe Milliken and Friends. T. W. (Tommy) Eng, owner and builder of the Superior Palace restaurant on Balboa Street, San Francisco, recently celebrated the restaurant's First Anniversary with a gala champagne party. The festive occasion was also in celebration of the completed Princess Room, a beautiful banquet facility seating up to 90 persons.

Tablesides Cooking Lehr's Steakery

Phil Lehr's flair for tableside cooking in the elegant Wellington Room of the Steakery in downtown San Francisco has earned him national awards of merit from the Prune Advisory Board, California Apple Industry, California Olive Growers, Santory Whisky Corp. and the Cheese Industry of Denmark. For each he created a gourmet flaming steak specialty. Elegant banquets and private parties are a specialty at Bertolucci's in South San Francisco. Owners Lola Bogdan and Larry Bertolucci have three private banquet rooms for special functions. Tennis, anyone? Not at The Fisherman in Burlingame these days. Rich Patane, co-owner, and the Jimmy Connors of the restaurant set, tore some ligaments in his foot making a volley. His brother Bob is filling in as manager and host. Salad-lovers should try Sirloin and Brew Unlimited in Belmont. You know about their generous policy concerning wine, beer and Sangria (all you can hold). The same generosity prevails at the Salad Bar. And help yourself to the rye or pumpernickel and all the patties of butter you wish.

JESD Trustees Get Wage, Salary Requests

Salary and other proposals for classified and certificated employees were introduced to the Jefferson Elementary School District board of trustees this week.

The trustees will meet and confer on a classified employees committee salary proposal, an early retirement program proposal for teachers, a part-time and partnership teaching proposal, and leaves of absence with pay proposal.

Bill Young, director of classified personnel, said the classified employees proposal will be studied by the board of trustees in meet and confer session with their representatives.

The proposal is an unusual one, Young said, in that it withholds a specific salary increase percentage request until Department of Labor cost of living increase figures are released in July, at the end of the fiscal year.

"I don't anticipate any real progress," Young said. "And I don't believe the employees expect any significant progress until then."

Young said it will be six to eight weeks after the cost of living figures are released before a firm proposal will be made from the board of trustees.

"We're confident the budget will be able to meet the demands made upon it," Young said. Salary increase revenue could come from the general fund.

The California School Employees Association representing the classified workers proposed that the percentage be based on the current inflation rate.

"The great inflation impact of these times requires that the employees' wages be put on a more current basis," the proposal said.

The employees also are seeking an escalator clause to insure against future inflationary increases.

Young said a classification report is being compiled and will also be a necessary part of determining salary increases.

Young said unless there is a significant downturn in national inflation, he would expect the cost of living increase to be no less than 12 per cent.

Whether or not the budget can support such an increase will be determined by the board, he said.

Classified employees also are seeking a minimum two hour "call-back" pay for unassigned hours; health and welfare benefits, also to be based on cost of living figures; a three-day personal leave policy; and release time policy for CSEA activities.

Police Charge 2 With Burglary

Two San Franciscans were arrested Thursday afternoon by San Bruno Police for allegedly burglarizing a residence at 2991 Crestmoor Drive of two televisions and stereo equipment.

Booked at the Daly City holding facility were Joseph Ferguson, 31, and Elizabeth Tulloh, 26.

According to police, neighbors of the Crestmoor Drive residence reported a burglary in progress and gave Officer Robert Metcalfe a description of the suspects and the car they were driving.

Officer Metcalfe, police said, saw the suspects driving south on Shelter Creek Lane and San Bruno Avenue, and signaled for them to pull over.

The officer said he found televisions and stereo equipment in the back of the 1970 Ford Ranchero.

Ferguson and Miss Tulloh are to be arraigned on burglary charges June 23 in Northern Judicial Court, South San Francisco.

Company Delays In Yearbooks

A Washington yearbook company won't meet its deadline in delivering Terra Nova High School yearbooks, according to Pacini.

Pacini said Pischel Yearbook Co., Inc., of Pasco has informed Terra Nova that yearbooks can not be delivered until June 22.

Seniors finish school this week and classes for other students end next week.

Pacini said the company also violated contracts with South San Francisco High School and Stanford Law School.

Stanford law students reportedly intend to institute a law suit naming other schools as plaintiffs.

Pacini said the company gave no reason for the delay. The Terra Nova students, he said, had met their deadlines.

They learned of the delay accidentally when a student phoned the company May 28 to see if the books would arrive June 22 as scheduled.

Pacini said the company has printed but not bound the annuals.

He sent a telegram to Pischel Co. officials saying it had a "legal duty and moral obligation" to get the books to the students.

"I hope integrity doesn't stop at the California border," Pacini said he wrote in the letter.

The adviser said yearbooks will not be distributed until September since there will be no means of distributing them during the summer.

He said 1,000 students bought subscriptions this

A HAPPY DAY

A "Western Days" barbecue in Brisbane was filled with happy smiles Sunday as displayed by this clown. Some 2,000 participants consumed 1,500 chickens at the "world's biggest rotisserie." Sunday night, however, 100 motorcyclists arrived with a threat to "take the town apart," police said. The cyclists left without incident when Brisbane authorities called 40 officers from neighboring departments. There were no arrests or injuries.

Refresher Class Set

A re-training course for water safety instructors holding an American Red Cross WSI card will be conducted from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m.

June 7 and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. June 8 (with an hour for lunch) by the American Red Cross at Westmoor High School pool, Daly City.

Applicants must pre-register, purchase new textbooks and study guide, and complete the study guide before the first class. Cost is $3.15.

Almost 310,000 claims were paid last year for a total of $50 million, Monroe said. The average amount paid was $161.

Help With Claims For Senior Citizens

A state representative will be in San Mateo July 2 to assist California senior citizens in filing claims for benefits under the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Law.

A temporary office will be open at the Recreation Center, Central Park, 50 E. 5th Ave. between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., according to Jack Monroe, director of the Senior Citizens Property Tax Assistance Program.

The special assistance is available to senior citizen homeowners with limited income. To be eligible for partial reimbursement of their 1974-75 property tax, claimants must own and occupy their home, be 62 years or older as of January 1, 1975, and have a total household income of $10,000 or less.

The amount reimbursed is based on the total amount of property tax paid and the household income of the claimant, Monroe explained. Payments can range from 4 percent to 96 percent of the property tax paid.

San Mateo County Supervisor Edward J. Bacciochio Jr. proposed today that another bond issue election be scheduled to provide funds for the renovation of Chocho Community Hospital in San Mateo.

Bacciochio said he will ask the Board of Supervisors Tuesday to authorize a bond election this November.

The amount of the bond proposal, he said today, would be the difference between the $6,275,000 in bonds authorized by the voters in 1965 and the present cost of renovation and modernization of the hospital. County Health and Welfare Director George Pickett recently estimated the latter figure at $15 million. Bacciochio said he is not necessarily buying Pickett's figure at this time.

Bacciochio, in an effort to bring the debate over the future of the county hospital to an end, said he will propose to his fellow supervisors Tuesday that a decentralized health care experiment be abandoned and that a commitment be made to bring Chocho Hospital up to standard and keep it open.

The supervisor said he will propose that the latest bond issue be retired with sales tax revenues. Although the $6,275,000 bond measure was approved by the electorate in 1965, the Board of Supervisors never followed through with the voters' mandate to issue the bonds.

Bacciochio contends in a written report that Chocho Hospital "guarantees medical care for more people than the decentralized system would serve at a comparable price, and the county can oversee the operation of the hospital through direct management and cost controls."

He proposes that the Charter Street clinic in Redwood City be developed as a satellite clinic for the hospital.

The county is in the process of instituting a decentralized health care program in the southern portion of the county for a one-year demonstration period after which results will be analyzed and compared with the operation of the present centralized system at Chocho Hospital.

County Director of Health and Welfare Dr. George Pickett recently asserted before the board that it is likely that Chocho will not remain open.

Supervisor Urges Vote Chocho Renovation?

In his report, Bacciochio says that the Health Care Planning Task Force which recommended the decentralized system calculates that 18,700 people comprise the "priority population" who will use the decentralized health care system.

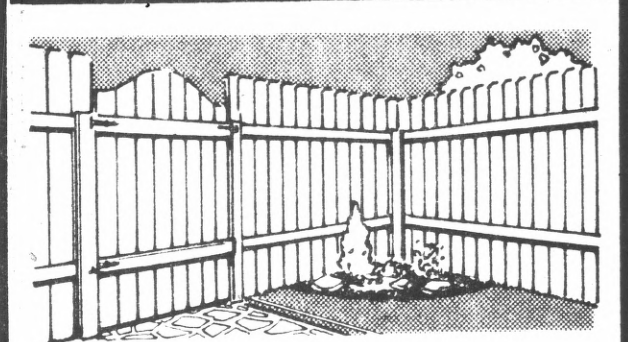

However, he reports, Chocho staff personnel contend that closer to 40,000 people use the facilities of the hospital and that the Task Force report admits that there are an additional 21,000 people who are the "potential near poor 'at risk' population... the working poor who have only marginal resources."

They do not benefit from Medi-Cal and are in danger of being excluded by definition from future county medical care under the decentralized system, Bacciochio asserts.

A report issued last February concerning Chocho Hospi-

HMB Council Backs Grant

After agreeing to act as the go-between agency, the Half Moon Bay City Council Tuesday night approved an application for a grant-in-aid to refurbish the 122-year-old Johnston House and preserve the mid-Coastside's oldest structure as an historic landmark.

The council resolution approved the application to the National Historic Preservation Grants-In-Aid Program on behalf of the local Johnston House Foundation, a non-profit group that needed the official sanction for the grant.

The city in effect becomes the administrative agency for the foundation, with authority to handle all aspects of the grant agreement.

City Planning Director Stanley M. Walker told the council the foundation has had some private contributions toward the estimated $125,000 restoration cost, with $80,000 to go toward rebuilding the house, constructed originally in 1853; $20,000 for ground and landscaping, and $25,000 for administrative costs.

In other business the council:

- Adopted an ordinance increasing storm drain fees on developments by a penny a square foot;

- Heard a report that the Crystal-Brite cable television system is considering spending up to $113,000 to rebuild its system and that subscriber rates would be hiked up to 35 per cent accordingly, and agreed that the firm should post a performance bond on its troubled system if the improvements didn't work, the bond money to be refunded to customers;

- Told Jerry Koontz, a tamale pushcart operator, that it would take two months for an ordinance to become effective which would amend business license and peddler's permit fees which his type of business could afford.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the County of San Mateo will receive sealed bids for: Relocation of Mull Area Transformer at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds.

2. Each bid shall be in accordance with drawings, specifications and contract documents prepared therefor now on file with the Director of Building Construction and General Services, County Office Building, 300 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California.

3. Drawings, specifications and contract documents may be examined and copies obtained at the office of the Director of Building Construction & General Services, 300 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California, upon deposit of $10.00 for said documents, which deposit will be forfeited if the Contractor fails to return the drawings and specifications in good condition within ten (10) days of the bid opening date.

4. Bidders are responsible to see that they obtain a complete set of plans, specifications and contract documents covering the work upon which they submit a bid.

5. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished and bound in the specifications and in accordance with regulations as set forth in the General Conditions, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or bid bond for ten percent (10%) of the bid as noted in said General Conditions.

6. Bids shall be sealed and filed with the Director of Building Construction & General Services, County Office Building, 300 Hamilton Street, Redwood City, California, on or before the 24th day of June, 1975, at 2:00 P.M. and will be opened on or about 2:00 P.M. of that day. The Director of Building Construction & General Services reserves the right to reject any and all bids, alternate bids, or unit prices and/or waive any irregularities in any bid received.

7. No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

8. WAGE RATES: The Board of Supervisors has determined and has published the rates of prevailing wages in the County of San Mateo, in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform the contract. Said prevailing rates are set forth on listing, copies of which are set forth in the specifications for the work, in the office of the Director of Building Construction & General Services. Crafts and rate per hour for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to perform this contract are listed under Wage Rates. Instructions to Bidders.

9. The prevailing rates so determined are based on an 8 hour day, 40 hour week, except as otherwise noted. Existing agreements between the Building Trades and the Construction Industry groups relative to overtime, holidays and other special provisions shall be recognized.

10. It shall be mandatory upon the Contractor, and upon any subcontractors under him, to pay not less than the said specific rates to all laborers, workmen or mechanics employed by them in the execution of this Contract.

11. A Bond will be required for the faithful performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Percent (100%) of the amount of the bid, and a bond will be required to guarantee the payment of wages for services engaged and all bids contracted for materials used in the performance of the contract in an amount of not less than One Hundred Percent (100%) of the Bid.
